THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXII. ATLANTA, GA., SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 28, 1891. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

STANFORD'S RANCH.

EIGHT THOUSAND ACRES IN ONE FIELD.

COLTS KEPT IN A KINDERGARTEN.

Looking Through Senator Stanford's Stable of Runners—The Great University Scheme.

MENLO PARK, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—It is worth a trip to the Golden Gate to see Senator Leland Stanford's magnificent ranch—Palo Alto.

There are 8,000 acres in the ranch, and every acre is as pretty and well kept as the neatest garden.

The most interesting feature of the ranch, to the average man, is the trotting horse department. Senator Stanford now has about 600 blooded trotters, including the colts.

At the head of the list is the magnificent seven-year-old stallion, Electricity, the son of Electioneer. He is a magnificent dark brown, with a record of 2:22. Senator Stanford recently refused an offer of $85,000 for this horse.

The greatest animal on the ranch for speed is the noted mare, Sunol, who has a record of 2:10½. Sunol is, however, not a pretty piece of horse flesh. Her hips are large, almost to deformity, but that is evidence of speed.

Palo Alto is perhaps Senator Stanford's favorite stallion. He has a record of 2:12½. There are scores of others with records from 2:14 to 2:40 and more and many promising colts.

COLTS IN A KINDERGARTEN.

About the ranch are many tracks for speeding and training. There are mile tracks, half-mile tracks, quarter tracks and even shorter ones for training the young colts. Indeed, the first lessons given the colts is the most interesting sight about the ranch. On a track about an eighth of a mile around and covered by a shed, the colts are given their first lessons. The outside of the track is boarded up to the roof, while on the inside there is a fence too high for them to jump. The track is covered with the softest sod. On it the one-year-old and younger colts are given their first lessons in trotting. With nothing but a bridle without reins, they are turned into this track, one at a time. There are two men on the inside with long whips, who crack them and force the colts to speed around the track. By this means the natural trotting gait of the young one's is not interfered with. A colt is not forced into unnatural action, but instead his gaits are thoroughly developed, and if there is any speed in him it is soon shown under this method. It is remarkable how quickly the colts learn just what is expected of them, and many develop great speed at one year old.

A STABLE OF RUNNERS.

Senator Stanford also has on another part of his ranch a stable of noted runners headed by Racine, who leads the world's record on a regular track. He will perhaps be run against Salvator's record of 1:35½ on a straight track this spring.

There, on the same ranch, is the great

to which Senator Stanford has given $20,000,000. The buildings are not yet completed, although within less than a year the university will be thrown open. All the buildings except the dormitories are but one story in height, of the Spanish type of architecture, built of stone, with heavy, decidedly slanting roofs. The dormitories are five stories each. The one for the boys is located a half-mile or more from that of the girls.

Senator Stanford has also given several thousand acres of land to the university. Indeed, at his death, his entire Palo Alto property goes to the university. It is his object to make it the greatest and most complete school in the world, and no one doubts but that it will be just as he wills.

A TWENTY-MILLION MONUMENT.

Senator Stanford had but one child, Leland, Jr., who died in Italy of Roman fever about two years ago. He was seventeen years of age, and was a wonderfully bright and studious youth. The university is to be built as a monument to the memory of this son, whose body now lies in a magnificent vault near the college buildings.

After a tour over the ranch and through the wine cellars in which were a few hundred thousand gallons, the congressional delegation was entertained at Senator Stanford's home by his brother-in-law, Mr. Hughes. The house is a perfect palace. Each room is finished in polished hard-woods of different varieties. The dining room is particularly handsome. The walls are of panels of polished cherry, while the ceiling is covered with beautiful raised Chinese papering. The furniture is of the handsomest carved mahogany, while scores of brass and other metal plaques decorate the wall. Indeed, everything about the house is magnificent.

A lunch was served consisting of oysters in the shell, bouillon, frogs legs, chops, terrapin, asparagus, chicken with mushrooms, and various sweets and wines.

The drives about the ranch are lined with magnificent shade trees of many varieties, and, indeed, for grandeur, fertility and magnificence there is perhaps nothing in this country to equal Senator Stanford's Palo Alto ranch.

EIGHTEEN INCHES OF SNOW

On the Ground in Virginia—South-Bound Trains Delayed.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The first signs of approaching spring and departing winter, which became apparent some weeks ago, in the budding of trees and the greenness of grass parks, has been displaced by a blustering snowstorm, which struck the city early this morning, accompanied by a strong northeast wind. The snow fell thick and fast for a while, but later in the day the downfall became rain, which changed the snow on the streets to slush and then carried it away. Some of the snow remains wherever it fell upon the grass or earth, and things have had a decidedly wintry aspect all day. It still rains tonight, with occasional flurries of snow. This is exceedingly late in the season for snow to fall in Washington, and it is altogether an unusual occurrence.

The storm is believed to be one which had its origin in the west two days ago, and has been gradually working its way east since then. It will probably prevail on the Atlantic coast tonight.

A signal office bulletin shows two storms are central this morning, one in Indiana and the other off the Carolina coast, with the probability that bad weather will be still further increased along the southern coast and cause gales along the whole Atlantic border. Now the storm seems to be general in the middle states.

Passengers on incoming trains from the south report a heavy fall of snow in the Shenandoah valley and other parts of Virginia, reaching in some places the depth of eight inches. All trains from the south are delayed on account of washouts caused by heavy rains and drifting snow.

DEEP SNOW IN VIRGINIA.

HARRISONBURG, Va., March 27.—Snow commenced falling here about 9 o'clock last night, and this morning was about ten inches deep. The storm continued all day, and the snow is about sixteen inches deep this evening.

WINCHESTER, Va., March 27.—The severest storm of the winter has prevailed here for the last twenty-four hours. The snow is eighteen inches deep.

THEY PACKED UP AND LEFT

Because They Were Called Upon to Pay Back Taxes.

DELPHI, Ind., March 27.—Abner H. Bowen died here about a year ago, leaving $5,000,000, though he never paid taxes on more than a few thousand, the assessors being afraid to brook him. On his death the estate was moved on for back taxes. The heirs failed to agree on an administrator and the court appointed the county treasurer, whom they fought until last Wednesday, when the county moved that Bowen's estate be taxed on $2,000,000 personal property. The heirs immediately began packing up their possessions. Trunks, valises, satchels and boxes were brought into requisition and stored with notes, mortgages, bonds and stocks. With these in their possession the heirs departed on a midnight train. The widow is now in Urbana, Ill., Edward Bowen in Chicago and A. T. and Etta Bowen on their way to Philadelphia. All have given up their residence in Indiana except Nathaniel Bowen, who retains real estate. When the announcement of the retreat of the heirs was made yesterday no one appeared more surprised than their attorneys, who declared that they had not received a hint of the intended flight of their clients. A bank owned by the family is in the hands of the assistant cashier, and the depositors commenced a run on it.

NOT ON THE BILLS.

A Tragedy in a Variety Theater at Spokane Falls.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., March 27.—A double murder and suicide occurred early this morning at the Casino variety theater. Charles Elliott, a faro dealer, who was occupying a box near the stage, drew his pistol and fired several shots at the performers. One bullet took effect in the left breast of Mabel Debabian, killing her almost instantly. Another bullet lodged in the back of Carrie Smith, also a variety actress, inflicting a fatal wound. Elliott then placed the muzzle of his revolver in his mouth and blew his own brains out. His shots were intended for an actress named Lulu Durand, who was on the stage at the time, and of whom Elliott was insanely jealous.

A FAMILY POISONED

And a Divorced Wife Suspected of Having Something to Do With It.

OMAHA, Neb., March 27.—What is suspected to be an attempted poisoning of the family of J. S. Hascall, a prominent politician, was brought to light today. Last Tuesday, while Hascall was away from home, five members of his household were taken suddenly ill after dinner, and the next morning Emma Anderson, his housekeeper, died. The others are recovering. The family kept the matter quiet until today, but the probabilities now are that the housekeeper's body will be exhumed and an inquest held. Hascall is divorced from his wife, and it is alleged that the Anderson woman was the cause of the separation. It is claimed that threats had been made that she would not die a natural death.

NOW YOU SEE IT—NOW YOU DON'T.

Two Iowa Saloon Keepers Devise a Sharp Scheme to Evade the Liquor Law.

BARNUM, Iowa, March 27.—Two saloon keepers have a new scheme for evading the liquor law. During the holidays they had constructed a saloon building in sections, so that it could be taken apart and stored away. Recently the district court granted an injunction against the saloons, and the other night the proprietors took down their building and stored it away in a warehouse, so that when the sheriff of Webster county comes to serve the injunction he will find no saloon.

BISHOP WILMER'S ILLNESS.

His Son Summoned to His Bedside—The Bishop Very Low.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—A telegram was received yesterday afternoon by Dr. William Holland Wilmer, of this city, from relatives in Mobile, announcing the dangerous illness of his father, Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, and requesting him to come at once. He left at 11 o'clock last night. Bishop Wilmer has not been strong for some time past, and a fatal termination of his illness is not improbable.

A LA GRIPPE MICROBE.

One of the Little Tormenters Captured by a Chicago Doctor.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Dr. William D. Gentry, of this city, claims to be possessed of a microbe of la grippe, the first ever captured or heard of. The little wriggler is imprisoned on the glass of Dr. Gentry's microscope, and was today carefully inspected by many.

Bishop Ryan Dangerously Ill.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Bishop Ryan, one of the prelates of the Catholic church, is lying dangerously ill at Providence hospital, where he was taken from the Catholic university two weeks ago. A telegram received in this city this morning, says that Vicar General Gleason and Father Cronin have decided to come to Washington to be with Bishop Ryan, for his friends, in view of his age and weak condition, are alarmed.

The Trial of Kincaid.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—In the Kincaid trial today, the defense began by recalling and cross-examining ex-Doorkeeper Donelson, for the purpose of discrediting him as a witness; and also proving by him that Taulbee had made threats against Kincaid's life. The testimony of other witnesses was directed to showing that Taulbee had made threats against Kincaid and that Kincaid was "weak, feeble and nervous" at the time of the tragedy.

The Dispute Settled.

CHICAGO, March 27.—A final settlement of long dispute between boss carpenters and journeymen was reached last evening, when the associations met and ratified the agreement signed Saturday last by the joint conference committee. The United Carpenters' council met last night and the agreement was gone over clause by clause, each receiving careful consideration.

The Loan Will Be Met Promptly.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The 4½ per cent loan, of which little more than $50,000,000 is now outstanding, will mature September 1st, next. Treasury officials say there will be no trouble whatever, in meeting it and that it was regarded as a matter of so little concern that it was not thought necessary to bring it to the attention of congress.

The Entire Train Was Consumed.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 27.—A local passenger train on the Chesapeake and Ohio railway ran into the rear of a freight train in a tunnel, seventy-five miles east of here yesterday, and both trains were wrecked. Fire broke out and the entire passenger train was consumed. Several persons were slightly injured.

THE LONELY TRAMP

PROVED TO BE A WELL-HEELED CONFEDERATE.

THE GAME OF CARDS ON THE ROAD.

An Arkansas Man Taken in by a Gang of Confidence Men, Who Are Now in Danger of the Rope.

FORT SMITH, Ark., March 27.—[Special.]—Great excitement prevails in the town of Fayetteville and surrounding country, over a robbery committed near there yesterday. A prominent Farmers' Allianceman, William F. Dowell, was robbed of $3,000 by a gang of confidence men, two of whom were captured last evening and now lie in jail at that place. The remainder of the gang, one of whom is a woman, escaped. A mob, headed by a prominent Fayetteville lawyer named Jones, who carried a rope, would have strung them up to the nearest tree had they not been restrained by the authorities. The excitement still runs high.

THE STORY TOLD.

The following story is related by Ed Staglin, of this city, who was one of four persons present when the prisoners told their story to the sheriff:

Three nights ago two well-dressed men, who gave their names as Dr. Baker and Dr. Howard, of Springfield, Mo., arrived at Fayetteville on the Frisco railroad, and put up at the Tremont hotel. They stated to various parties that they desired to purchase land in the neighborhood. They had about closed negotiations for Dowell's farm, near the town, for $7,000, and on yesterday morning, accompanied, by Dowell, were on their way from the latter's house to town, when a tramp came upon them. The latter said he was on his way to see his sister, who lived in the neighborhood, and was, he had learned, in destitute circumstances. He further stated that he had come from Texas, and was better off than he seemed. Opening up his valise he exhibited to the astonished listeners a roll of greenbacks. He added that he had lost $700 in town at a game of cards, and proposed a game of poker to his companions, to which the Springfield pair consented, the latter losing $3,000 to the Texas gentleman.

THE MONEY CHANGES HANDS.

Representing themselves as out of cash and, wishing to recover their losses, they asked Dowell for a loan of $3,000, and offered a check as security, the check being for $10,000, including the price of the farm. Dowell went to Fayetteville, and returned with the money.

The game was resumed, when the tramp drew a revolver and covering the group demanded their money. Their cash was surrendered and the tramp fled to the woods, and, as it afterwards turned out, took the train at Greenland, the first station south of Fayetteville, where he joined the woman confederate. Dowell and his companions returned to the farmer's home, the pair expressing deep sympathy at Dowell's loss, promising to make good the latter's loss in the morning. Taking dinner Baker and Howard drove to the town of Fayetteville.

DOWELL GROWS SUSPICIOUS.

Dowell, whose suspicions were aroused by this time, followed them, and arrived in time to see his companions taking a hack for the 5 o'clock train north. He sounded the alarm, and the pair were pursued by an excited crowd a mile into the country, where they were captured and taken back to town.

THE CONFIDENCE MEN IN PERIL.

It was with difficulty that the sheriff restrained the crowd from hanging them. Baker confessed to the sheriff the well-concocted plan to rob Dowell, and promised to make good the $3,000 today, sending the following badly spelled telegram to Kansas City, Mo., where they stated they lived:

Chestey no 9 main Street. Send $3,000, so soon as you can anser. G. C. HAIGHT."

This was answered by another man, saying: Chestey out of town. Send further particulars. To this Haight answered:

Send Jackson with money at once. Am in serious trouble.

They are given twenty-four hours in which to replace the money. Howard gave Baker's real name as Jake Long, and the tramp's as Hennessy.

PURSUING THE TRAMP.

Hennessy secreted himself in a water closet, after boarding the train at Greenland. When the train arrived at 5 o'clock, p. m., the officers boarded it, delaying it half an hour in searching for their man. The closet was broken open, and the tramp discovered. The officers were about to seize him, when a passenger, whom Baker stated was another confederate, stepped up and stated that the man had been on the train for several hours, and he was allowed to go. After the train had gone, discovering their mistake, the authorities telegraphed a deputy marshal at Rogers, several miles above, to hold him, but he had left the train at an intermediate station. The woman went further north.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Because He was Suspected of Stealing Spring Seed.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 27.—Governor Humphreys has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Thomas Duncan, a settler living in a Cheyenne county dug-out. This is a white capping case from one of the sparsely settled districts. Duncan was accused of pilfering small quantities of grain from his neighbors to use in the spring planting. One man said he saw Duncan stealing his grain, and notified the others. Twenty masked men rode up to Duncan's house at night, and were met by his wife. They started to raze Duncan's sod-house, when he announced from his hiding place that he would come out. As he did so the party riddled him with bullets.

SHE TRIED IT ON A DOG.

The Rare Prudence of a South Carolina Mother.

EDGEFIELD, S. C., March 27.—[Special.]—A young man named Burton, residing in Edgefield county, attempted to poison his mother and the rest of the family by dosing the breakfast with strichnine. The mother suspected something wrong, and tried the breakfast on a dog before serving it. The dog died. No arrest has been made.

A Bold Robbery.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 27.—In Garst's saloon near the heart of the city, at an early hour this morning, a customer took a drink and then cooly drew a Winchester rifle on the saloonkeeper ordering him to deliver the contents of the cash drawer. The saloon keeper obeyed, and handed out about $20. The man was subsequently captured and bound over to the grand jury. Neighboring Italians came to the rescue but scattered at a command from the robber. He was nearly a white mulatto, and his was the boldest robbery ever occurring in Birmingham.

A Georgia Murderer Held.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Governor Fowle today issued a warrant for the rendition to the governor of Georgia, of Noah Oxendine, who is in jail at Rockingham, Richmond county, and who is charged with murder in Liberty county, Georgia.

IN EVENT OF WAR

ENGLAND WILL PROTECT BELGIUM'S NEUTRALITY.

EGYPT AT THE BOTTOM OF THE TROUBLE

Between France and England Regarding Newfoundland—The Political Situation in Ireland—Other Foreign Gossip.

LONDON, March 27.—[Copyright, 1891, by The New York Associated Press.]—Lord Salisbury just before starting for San Remo, held a long conference with Lord Knutsford and Mr. Currie, permanent secretary of the foreign office. A work of supreme difficulty requiring most delicate handling was confided to Mr. Currie relating to the engagements of England to protect Belgium. King Leopold, during his recent visit, pressed for an answer as to what practical co-operation England would give under the existing treaty for the defense of Belgian neutrality in the event of war. Lord Salisbury, according to a report credited in the foreign office, promised English aid by fleet and a contingent of troops if demanded, to defend Antwerp, leaving the Belgian army free for defensive operations in forts of the Meuse.

WILL NOT LONG BE DELAYED.

Something occurring behind the scenes of European diplomacy sharpens the apprehension that the final move in the long game, preluding war, will not be delayed. Apart from the renewal of the concentration of troops on the Russian-Austrian frontiers and the czar's demontrative friendship for President Carnot, it is reported that an agreement has been reached between the French and Russian governments in regard to a simultaneous mobilization of troops and other movements in the event of war. The heads of European powers seem to be informed of the Prussian scheme of attack, which is likely to declare itself in the autumn.

BELGIAN NEUTRALITY.

The question of Belgian neutrality is ultimately associated with England's attitude in such a conflict, and it will be Lord Salisbury's justification if the agreement with King Leopold comes up in parliament.

The presence of Lord Knutsford at the conference with Lord Salisbury was probably due to the relations of Newfoundland with other disputes with France. Questions, of which notice has already been given in the house of commons, to be answered after the Easter recess, demand that the government explain whether or not tke fisheries trouble has become a mere pawn on the diplomatic chess board, on which English occupation of Egypt is king.

Lord Knutsford damaged his reputation among the conservatives through his tactless treatment of the Newfoundland matter. He required coaching by Lord Salisbury, who is blamed in his own circle for allowing the colonial minister too free a hand.

DILKE EXPLAINS THE SITUATION.

Sir Charles Dilke, in an article written for tomorrow's paper, discloses the source of uneasiness prevailing among the ministerialists.

"If," he says, "strange foreign arbitrators, picked up in the Russian foreign office and elsewhere, would, for political reasons, declare against us, then a modus vivendi under the Knutsford bill becoming an act, will have to be forced on the colonials by deeds of civil war. If Newfoundland was an American state, France would sell her rights in five minutes to the United States. She only refuses to sell them to England because she is irritated about Egypt."

Dilke is right. 'Inner official circles distrust arbitration. They fear the results of the proposed arbitration and know that the fate of Newfoundland is interknit with the government's Egyptian policy.

THE IRISH POLITICAL SITUATION.

Tim Healy was hopeful tonight that he will be able to go to Sligo Tuesday. The Parnellites got up a deputation of Sligo dock laborers in order to give their chief a chance to expatiate on his labor sympathies. Replying to the deputation with an address, Parnell declared that ever since he was twenty-one years of age he had felt keenly for the cause of the laborers; that he had encouraged his own employes to form unions; that he never had any workmen in his mines who had struck, and that there had always been perfect accord between him and his employes.

In a subsequent free conversation the members of the deputation acknowledged that their views had been changed, and they left Parnell, vowing that his candidate should be theirs. Michael Davitt will opportunely arrive on the scene tomorrow to dispel the Parnell glamor.

WILL RESULT IN A SUIT.

Healy's accusing Parnell and Valentine Dillon of inciting the Dalton outrage will be the subject of an action to be brought by Mr. Dillon after the north Sligo contest has been decided. The general feeling is that Healy ought to have had substantial evidence before speaking. The language used on both sides is becoming utterly unrestrained. The Parnellite's Dublin evening organ calls the McCarthyites "stinking carrion, floating on the stream of corruption." It apologizes for Dalton's attack on Healy as being provoked by "libelous work conducted under eminent Christian patronage" of priests. Practically the response to the continued abuse of their order has been to suppress the circulation of the Parnellite press. The leading Parnellite paper has lost over 5,000 clerical subscribers.

Archbishop Walsh will leave Rome on Tuesday bearing the deliverance of the pope invoking the people to sustain the church during her present trial. Communications wired to the Vatican urged that the papal message be read in the churches Sunday prior to the Sligo election. But Archbishop Walsh, obtaining information that the district needed no external impulse to go solid against Parnell, has postponed announcing the message until his return. The securing of Sligo will give a total to the nationals in parliament, counting John Dillon and William O'Brien, of fifty-two members against the Parnellites thirty-two. The funds of the national federation are daily increasing, while the Parnellite funds are nowhere.

O'Shea Suing the Bishops.

DUBLIN, March 27.—It is announced that Captain O'Shea has brought suit against the Catholic bishop of Galway and Kilmacdaugh, Francis J. MacCormack, and against Canon John O'Mahoney, of the Catholic diocese of Cork, for alleged libelous utterances in regard to his relations with Parnell.

BURNING OF CORK COURTHOUSE.

The People Cheered as the "Union Jack" Fell Into the Flames.

CORK, March 27.—The courthouse was discovered to be on fire today while the judge was summing up the case against O'Brien, Dalton and others, charged with rioting at Tipperary. Everybody got out safely.

The fire was discovered by a barrister, who noticed the reflection of the flames on the glass dome of the roof. The court was packed at the time, and only the coolness of the judge and police prevented a panic.

Despite all efforts to extinguish the fire the flames spread rapidly and the building was soon all ablaze. The courthouse, including the municipal council chamber and city and county offices, was totally destroyed. The intense heat melted the lead on the roof of the building, and the molten metal poured to the ground in streams, hindering the work of the firemen. During the height of the fire the roof of the courthouse suddenly fell in with a crash and the walls collapsed, to the imminent peril of a large party of bystanders. Some of the archives were saved. Many documents, some of them dating back for centuries, were destroyed. When the flagstaff which surmounted the building was burned away and the union jack fell into the flames, the onlookers set up a great cheer. The cause of the fire is attributed to a defective flue, which ignited the woodwork of the roof. The trial which was so rudely disturbed, will be resumed at a later date.

A SAD STORY OF THE SEA.

The Wreck of a Norwegian Bark Near Cape Henry.

NORFOLK, Va., March 27.—The Norwegian bark Dictator, from Pensacola, Fla., to Westhartlepool, England, laden with pine lumber, with a crew of fifteen and the captain's young wife and little boy of three years, came ashore in a strong easterly gale this morning, four miles south of Cape Henry, and two miles north of Virginia Beach hotel. The weather was so thick that the vessel was not seen until 9 o'clock, and then she was in the breakers broadside on within a quarter of a mile of shore. The full crews from two life-saving stations, those of Cape Henry and Seatack, under command of Captain Drinkwater, were promptly on hand and began firing lines to the ill-fated bark. The guns could not deliver the lines so far, though they were repeatedly fired.

The ship finally succeeded in getting a line ashore tied to a barrel, which the surf carried to the life-savers. A breeches buoy was quickly rigged and sent to the vessel, but unfortunately the bark's crew were ignorant of its use, and rescue was delayed until Captain Drinkwater, of the life-saving crew, wrote instructions, put them in a bottle and sent it to the dictator by the line connecting the vessel with the shore.

The men on board broke the bottle at once, as could be seen by glasses from the shore, and proceeded to carry out the instructions.

THE FIRST MAN RESCUED.

The first man was delivered ashore in eight minutes and seven others were rescued before sunset, four of whom came ashore in a lifeboat, which was capsized, but the men succeeded in reaching the shore in a half-dead condition, one man having his arm broken.

During the entire day the ship rolled and pitched terribly, and made the work of rescuing the unhappy sailors exceedingly difficult and slow, as the life line would tighten or slacken in response to the motion of the vessel. Once the line broke with a man midway to shore, and he was hauled back to the bark half dead. The line was mended, and the same man was safely landed.

The beach was lined with people who had come from country houses and the hotel, and to the spectators the anxiety and suspense was awful, as they could plainly see the people on the bark and hear their constant cries for succor. At nightfall there were still nine persons on the bark and among the number the captain, his wife and little child.

A BRAVE LITTLE WOMAN.

The captain had urged his wife all during the day to take the buoy and come ashore, but she steadily refused, as she would not leave her husband and child, and only one could take the buoy at a time. The wife and child were already greatly exhausted, according to the report of the sailors.

Tonight the work of rescue was continued and the captain, after vainly beseeching his wife to make the attempt for life, took his half-dead child and climbed into the buoy. The father reached the shore, but the son was lost. It has been impossible to get the names of the rescued tonight, owing to the fact that they are entirely exhausted and seem to be foreigners.

THE VESSEL WILL GO TO PIECES.

Lloyd's register gives the captain's name as Jorgonson. The bark will be a complete wreck, as she is fast going to pieces, and the sea is still tremendous. The chances are that by daylight tomorrow, there will be no vessel in sight and all remaining on board tonight will be lost. All that could be gathered from the half-dead sailors, as to the cause of the stranding of the vessel was that they did not know where they were, the sun not having been seen for four days. The apparently slow progress of the work of rescue is due to the fact that the lifeboat could not live in the surf, and that the guns would not reach the bark, and that the crew could not use the breeches buoy until they were instructed from shore, which caused great delay.

Later—The bark has gone to pieces and the seven that remained on her have been lost, including the wife of the captain. The captain, just before the ship went to pieces, sprang into the sea, with his son strapped to his back, and reached the shore alive, but the boy was lost, making a total loss of eight lives.

FINANCIALLY EMBARRASSED.

Falk & Son, of Savannah, in the Hands of Their Creditors.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—A. Falk & Son, large wholesale and retail dealers in clothing, are financially embarrassed. Today the National bank of Savannah foreclosed on a mortgage for $19,000 and took possession of the stock. Other mortgages have been entered up, making a total of $59,200. One of these is a third mortgage in favor of S. S. Solomon, of Charleston, for $15,000 and there is one for $5,000 in favor of Moses Brothers, of Montgomery, Ala. There are other small claims held here and in New York that will probably run the liabilities up to over $80,000. The assets, consisting of stock and outstanding accounts, are estimated at about $60,000. The firm has always rated high until recently, and had an extensive business. Much sympathy is expressed for it in business circles.

Adopting the Automatic Car Couplers.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The Engineering News will publish this week the following statement of the progress made in the equipment of freight cars with automatic couplers of the type adopted by the Master Car Builders' Association, and with automatic air brakes. Railroad companies, controlling over 72,000 miles of road, and over 700,000 freight cars, report that they have adopted the policy of applying the automatic couplers of the Master Car Builders' type to new freight cars, and over 9,900 cars were equipped on January 1, 1891.

They Are Anxious for their Money.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 27.—[Special.]—There are hundreds of inquiries of the governor regarding the refunded direct tax, and some holders of receipts and some newspapers intimate that the money ought to be now here. The delay is at Washington and is unavoidable, for every stub of the tax receipts must be copied and copies sent to the governor. This work is now being done there as rapidly as possible.

Chattanooga's Union Railroad.

THE PULSE OF TRADE

REPORTED BY DUN & CO., IN THEIR WEEKLY REVIEW.

BUSINESS VERY QUIET AND HESITATING.

Complaint of Slow Collections and Bad Weather—A Week of Unhealthy Speculation—Fluctuations of Prices.

NEW YORK, March 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: If the news is good news, as concerns the condition of business at this season, the outlook is fairly satisfactory. It is a season of transition and uncertainty, and every week that passes without distinctly untoward events brings closer the new and probably large crops of next summer, and lessens the chance that intervening disaster, financial, industrial or commercial, may prevent a revival of all business.

Trade has been rather quiet and hesitating, as is natural at this season, and there is rather more complaint of slow collections, but throughout the northwest bad weather and the bad state of country roads supply an explanation. Money is in fair and increasing supply. The outlook for coming crops continues exceptionally good.

It has been a week of unhealthy speculation in some products, owing to the desperate efforts of powerful combinations to force prices on which they can unload without loss. Wheat rose to 116½ on Monday, and at 115½ is still 2 cents higher than a week ago, sales here having been 73,000,000 bushels; and corn, with sales of 35,000,000 bushels, has risen 4½ cents to 78½ cents, while oats, at 59½ cents, are less than 1 cent higher. Pork products advance, and coffee and oil a small fraction each, while cotton is a sixteenth lower.

The general average of prices reached its highest point this year on Monday, and though now a fraction lower, is still 1 per cent above last week, but manufactured products do not share in the advance, except in a few cases.

EFFECT OF THE STRIKES.

Threatened strikes in the building trades cause some uneasiness, and some strikes in textile works result, on the whole, unfavorably to employers, while some of the great coke producers have attempted to resume at a reduction of wages, the result being yet uncertain. This strike seems to have helped the iron interests by preventing a further decline, for though the best brands are scarce, a reduction of $1 per ton was at one time imminent, but the market has a better tone. Rails are firm, but very dull, and manufactured products are, on the whole, weaker. Copper is weaker, and tin steady, with lead a shade higher. Coal agents have officially changed schedules to fit the fact that recent quotations have been fictitious, and new prices are 15 to 25 cents higher than a year ago. Wool is selling steadily—2,626,000 pounds at Boston, and a very large consumption of Australian is a surprise; it seems due in part to the bad condition of many western fleeces, but in part to the fact that the home supply is nearly exhausted. Carpet works at Philadelphia are fairly busy and buying freely, many mills having orders for the season.

REPORTS FROM THE CITIES.

At Boston money is easy and trade dull because of the weather, but large orders for lumber promise active building. Business in cotton and jewelry at Philadelphia is dull, but points a little more active. Pittsburg notes some decline in structural iron, blooms and billets. At Chicago dry goods, clothing and shoes are dull, though the sales exceed last year's for the same week, and receipts in wool are considerably increased, while there is a decrease in flour and lard, and a decrease of one-half in dressed beef. At other northwestern points trade is fair, though much affected by the weather and the state of the roads, but slow collections are the rule. New Orleans finds trade only fair, but cotton receipts increase. Sugar is dull, molasses stronger and rice firm. Trade at Savannah is holding its own, but at Jacksonville is dull, the orange crop having been marketed. The outlook for vegetables is good.

The treasury has put out nearly $5,000,000 more than it has taken in during the week, but part has gone abroad. The market here has been a little stronger, rates on call rising from 2½ to 3 per cent, but no signs of pressure appear, as are usually apprehended at this season.

A DULL STOCK MARKET.

The stock market has been exceedingly dull, but, on the whole, stronger, the average price of stock being about 60 cents per share higher than a week ago. The prospect for peace among the railroads does not grow brighter, however, and signs of rate cutting are frequent.

Business failures, throughout the country during last week, number for the United States 228, Canada 28. For the corresponding week last year the figures were 217 in the United States and 26 in Canada.

A Wall Street Rumor.

NEW YORK, March 27.—There were reports about Wall street this afternoon that the Mechanics' and Traders' bank, of Broome street and Broadway, was hard pressed for money, and that the directors were having difficulty in getting assistance. Meyer Holmessinger, who was president up to January 13th last, when he was succeeded by J. Boskowitz, was seen tonight. He said he considered the bank in sound condition.

The Board of Trade Drawing Upon New Territory for Export Shipments. The Local Work.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the board of trade today, the committee which visited Cincinnati, Knoxville, Atlanta and other interior points last week, made its report. The committee consisted of C. P. Goodyear, chairman; C. Downing, Jr., president of the board; M. Ullman, F. D. Aikin and A. F. Churchill. While their committee was in the interior, W. E. Kay, of the board, was in New York. The object of the visit was to interview the railway officials and shippers of freight, with a view of increasing the amount and variety of freight passing through this port. The committee reported that it had received the heartiest assurances of co-operation upon the part of the officials of the Brunswick and Western Railway Company, the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway Company, and of the Queen and Crescent route, and that their interviews with shippers, especially for export of various classes of raw product not heretofore shipped through this port, were exceedingly gratifying.

The committee will leave for the phosphate regions of Florida next week, continuing this work.

The board of trade has done much for Brunswick, and proposes to do much more.

A force of twenty men was put to work on Brunswick's new market house today, and the contractors say it will be completed by June.

COMPELLED TO ANTE UP.

Fire Insurance Companies Lose a Case in Greenville.

GREENVILLE, S. C., March 27.—[Special.]—The time of the court of common pleas at this place has been occupied for the past two days with the cases of the Pelzer Manufacturing Company against the Hamburg, Bremen, American, Hibernia and Southern fire insurance companies, and resulted in a verdict in each case for the Pelzer Manufacturing Company, together with interest and costs.

It will be remembered that the Pelzer Manufacturing Company lost several hundred bales of cotton by fire, in the burning of the City warehouse, in this city, about two years ago. The owner of the warehouse had built on the property of the Columbia and Greenville Railroad Company, on condition that the railroad company were to be exempted from claims for damage or loss by fire. The fire was supposed to have caught from a spark from a passing locomotive. The companies mentioned above refused to pay their share of the loss, on the ground that the owner of the warehouse could not legally exempt the railroad company from damage or loss.

Ex-Congressman Hammond, of Atlanta, was one of the counsel for the insurance companies.

THE ASSASSIN'S MISTAKE.

He Shoots Baltcheff Down When He Intended to Drop Stambuloff.

SOFIA, March 29.—At 8 o'clock this evening, while Premier Stambuloff and Baltcheff, minister of finance, who had been walking together, were about to enter their official residences, which adjoin each other, a man suddenly confronted them with a revolver and fired three shots point blank at Baltcheff, who fell dead. A crowd immediately collected, but the assassin escaped, owing to the darkness and confusion which prevailed among the people. A number of persons, who witnessed the murder, report that the assassin had three acomplices, who assisted him to escape. The shooting of Baltcheff has caused the greatest excitement. No motive has been suggested for the murder, but it is presumed that the conspirators may have intended to take the life of Stambuloff but that in the darkness they killed Baltcheff by mistake.

He Recognizes Bulkeley,

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 27.—Governor Bulkeley, of Connecticut, has made a requisition upon the governor of Rhode Island for a criminal named Garnett. Governor Davis has recognized the validity of the papers, and has sent them to the attorney general to see if they are all right. Governor Davis holds that as Bulkeley is in possession of the seals of the state he is governor de facto. Had papers bearing the seals of the state borne the signature of Morris as governor, they wouldhave been recognized with equal readiness. Under the circumstances Governor Davis does not feel that he can properly decline to recognize Bulkely's papers.

TERRIFIC STORM OF HAIL.

The Icy Particles Fall a Foot Deep—Damage to Fruit Trees.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—Parties coming into the city from the vicinity of Orchard Hill and the upper portion of Pike county report a most terrific hailstorm last night.

One gentleman, Mr. Jonas Boyd, says that, near Orchard Hill, the hail was actually a foot deep. Another from Pike county stated that it poured down his chimney and out on to the floor thick enough for him to gather it up by the double-handful. He further stated that it stripped fruit and other trees of every vestige of blooms and leaves. The same gentleman stated that, on his way to the city this morning, he saw in a stubble field hail to the depth of four inches, and that it was frozen. This seems incredible, but it is vouched for as the truth by men of veracity. Colonel F. M. Ison informed THE CONSTITUTION that in 1833 or 1834 a hailstorm swept over this section that was even more heavy than the one of last night. It happened just at wheat harvesting time, and pounded the grain so in the ground that you could not tell that anything had ever grown there. Trees were stripped entirely of their leaves in that instance, and where the land was rolling and the hail drifted against fences it was half thigh deep to a man.

MISS SARAH WAS BUXOM,

But Her Employer Seems to Have Been Foolish.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 27.—[Special.]—A. W. Bentley keeps a bookstore, news stand anp Bessemer dummy line ticket office, in the first story of the Florence hotel. A good-looking young woman has been in the store with him as assistant.

He is a nice fellow, came originally from St. Louis, and possessed general esteem and confidence. This morning John S. Martin, a clerk in the criminal court, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Bentley and the woman, charging that they have been living together as man and wife. Bentley was completely prostrated by the arrest, and physicians have been in attendance on him since. He alleges that it was spite on the part of Martin. He claims that Martin left some change on the counter recently, and returning failed to find it. Martin has had it in for him ever since.

The woman, who gives her name as Sarah Smith, denies the allegations in the warrant, and when released on bond, returned to the store and went to work as if nothing had happened. Subsequently Martin withdrew the prosecution as to the woman and Bentley made bond.

It has developed that Bentley has a wife in St. Louis who is ignorant of his whereabouts, and it is fear of her and the consequences of his desertion that has put him in bed. The deputy who arrested him says that in the first excitement of the arrest the accused man declared that he had a right to live with the woman because she was his wife.

Miss Sarah has been rather free with the customers, is saucy and buxom, but the arrest today was a surprise to all, except a privileged few in the community.

CREMATION IN SCOTLAND NECK.

The Discovery of a Frightfully Executed Crime.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Evidences of a foul murder came to light at Scotland Neck yesterday. A colored boy named John Odom had been missed since Saturday night. Tuesday afternoon the body of some one was found in Captain Kitchins's large furnace at his mills, almost entirely consumed. The machinery got disordered, and the mills were stopped and the steam let off. The fireman, thinking to hasten the discharge of the steam and the cooling of the furnace, opened a small door at the back of the furnace, where ashes are sometimes raked out. Upon opening the door the burned skull and other parts of the body rolled out upon the ground. Upon a hasty investigatian, suspicion rested upon two colored men, named Wade Doyle and Ed Cotten. Cotten was arrested at once, and a warrant was sent to Spring Hill for Doyle. He was arrested and brought to town. They are both under guard at this writing, and will not be tried before tomorrow. The body of the dead boy was identified only by his coat, which was found under the mill shed, and his cap, covered in the sawdust. The mayor had the bones and the parts of the body not consumed boxed and buried.

A NEW WHISKY RING

In Which Prominent Officials Seem to Be Involved.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Your correspondent today interviewed J. C. L. Harris, a prominent republican, concerning the oppression of the licensed distillers in this state by the revenue department, under the present administration. Harris says there is an organized system by which the officials seek to crush out the distilleries of less than 150 gallons daily capacity. Tho bulk of those in this state are of that class. The officials make no secret of this antagonism, which Harris says is in the interest of the western and northern distillers.

HARD ON THE MONEY-EARNERS,

Who Are Compelled to Pay Taxes on Their Incomes.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 27.—[Special.]—State Treasurer Bain this evening wrote the opinion or ruling as to the act of the late legislature taxing all incomes, he being, by law, required to construe the revenue act. The act requires only the net income to be listed by the taxpayer. The treasurer says it is, therefore, only necessary to define the words net income, and interprets them to mean that the taxpayer shall deduct from his gross income the actual necessary expenses of his business, or of supporting his family, and such deduction shall be allowed by the list taken. This ruling will allay the intense indignation which has followed the passage of the legislative act referred to.

Are You Taking a Spring Medicine

The answer to this question comes promptly from thousands of people: "Yes, we are taking our favorite Spring Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla."

The great popularity which this excellent preparation has gained is wonderful, and yet not so surprising when its great merit is considered.

It quickly demonstrates its power to make the weak strong, in the way it overcomes That Tired Feeling, and gives a fresh, energetic tone to the whole system.

It has established its name as "the greatest blood purifier ever discovered," in the astonishing cures it has effected of scrofula, salt rheum and other severe forms of blood disease.

There can be no doubt about its healthful effect upon the stomach and digestive organs, the kidneys and liver, when you hear the grateful statements of people whom it has cured of dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, heartburn, and other similar troubles.

Suppose you try a bottle this Spring.

"In the spring of 1890 I experienced that tired, dull feeling, and what sleep I had nights seemed to do me no good. Dyspepsia seized me, and each morning in the effort to get rid of the bad taste I had severe vomiting spells. I was much discouraged. My druggist suggested Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles and am happy to say it made me a new man, and I never was better. JOHN MACK, foreman Springer & Willard's stock farm, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

MR. STANLEY'S LECTURE

A RACY REPORT OF A MOVING RECITAL.

Horrors of the Great Forest Where Half the Men Perished—The Pygmies—The Division of Africa.

Mr. Henry M. Stanley is in Texas, and will reach Atlanta on schedule time. He comes under the auspices of the Young Men's Library and at the urgent invitation of the governor of the state. General Gordon, who was governor of Georgia at the time, wrote Mr. Stanley a most cordial letter, urging him to accept the invitation of the Young Men's Library Association. Mr. Stanley has accepted that invitation and will be here.

A Racy Report of His Lecture.

At the time of Mr. Stanley's San Francisco lecture, THE CONSTITUTION printed a dispatch from Major J. B. Pond, describing the immense crowd and the ovation received by the great explorer. Below is a racy account of the lecture itself.

Nothing has been printed here to show the character of Mr. Stanley's lecture, and this spirited account of the one at San Francisco will be enjoyed. It is taken from The Call and The Chronicle:

All the world and his wife waked up and looked at Henry M. Stanley last night as he strode across the stage-made mediæval hall of the Grand Opera house, and seated himself in a claret-colored plush throne chair.

To put it coldly, the house was worth $6,000, which means more than words to some people. To enumerate the audience and name its importance and degree would be impracticable. On the stage the mechanics' institute had taken 200 seats, William T. Reid had brought all his school boys from Belmont to occupy certain orchestra rows, the galleries were crammed, the family circle was "hustled" about the aisles, and when the venerable Adolph Sutro sought his seat in the orchestra the ushers had to dispute the way.

Mr. Stanley plunged into the center of Africa quickly and held his hearers above the ruddy Albert Nyanza on the green grasslands of the plain before he told them of the horrors which his column had undergone in the struggle of the great forest.

THE LONG MARCH BACK.

He said he had expected to receive letters from Emin Pasha on the banks of Albert Nyanza December 14, 1889, but these letters were not there and, after waiting several days, he plunged back into the interior forest from which his column had just escaped, and established near its borders a fortress. Emin Pasha was not found till the following April, when his delay of two weeks before agreeing on any settled plan for his future tried Stanley's patience. The lecturer went into elaborate particulars at this point in describing Emin's indecision. One day it would be this, another day that, till at last Stanley said that he would leave Jephson to aid Emin, and start himself to find the rear column.

The lecturer passed over the terrible difficulties of seventy-three days of hacking and hewing a pathway through darkness, and brought his audience to the moment when he pressed Major Bonney's hand, and learned from that officer that only 102 persons were left out of 273 souls.

These persons had not died in warfare, but in camp.

The lecturer made a strong effect by putting the story categorically.

"Said I to Major Bonney: 'Did you lose these men in battle?'

"'No, sir.'

"'Was there a great plague?'

"'No, sir.'

"'Did they die from starvation?'

"'No, sir.'

"'Did you hold a general council of officers when you found that these men were dying?'

"'No, sir.'

"It takes calamity to teach men, white or black, how to live more wisely," said Stanley, when speaking of this endeavor to keep pushing on through a country where the scratch of a thorn, the bite of an ant or the sting of a wasp resulted in an ulcer, that in turn resulted in certain death. Finally, after 160 weary days and nights of struggle and travel, 173 men out of the 389 who started, emerged from the forest into the 'blessed sunlight,' and the grasslands were found."

THE FOREST AND THE PIGMIES.

Then Stanley told how he led the rear column back to Albert Nyanza, only to learn that Emin Pasha and Jephson were prisoners of Mahdists and others. Stanley described the order which he sent to Jephson calling for "instant action," and directing him to escape without delay.

The details of Jephson's escape and reception in camp were received with tumultuous applause by the great audience.

THE GERMANS.

Mr. Stanley's tale of the dwarfs was entirely too brief. It seems the dwarfs are as hard to catch as fleas. The first capture was a surprise. It was a little pigmy queen of eighteen years. Stanley painted her picture with words, even to her "everted" lips, and the portrait was fetching. She was consigned, it seems, to "the little Irish Doctor Parke," who treated her with gentleness and made her reconciled to her captors.

Other prisoners were made among the dwarfs, but in the end it was found that they were only suited to the forest life, since the uplands wrecked their lungs.

Mr. Stanley wound up his lecture with a description of Emin Pasha's indecision and of his final desertion of his saviors.

The German efforts to obtain slices of African territory were considered, and the nation given a series of short, sharp raps.

Mr. Stanley finally told of his return to England, of his endeavors and success in securing a reasonable division and competition in equatorial Africa.

What Mrs. Stanley Says,

Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Tennant are with the party, and Mrs. Stanley is reported to have remarked:

"We leave tomorrow, I am grieved to say, but I have all sorts of delightful plans for returning to San Francisco. I went five times to Chinatown and bought five times as many articles. Monterey is the loveliest place I have seen as yet. I shall buy a home there some day. I believe Mr. Stanley seems to agree with me in the matter, and I am sure there isn't a lovlier spot in the world!"

The Sale of Seats Yesterday.

The sale of seats continued at the Young Men's library yesterday, and nearly all in the parquet were sold. A number were taken in the dress circle and balcony, but good seats may yet be had.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the Superior Court of said County: The petition of Mrs. J. E. Sibley, Miss Missouri H. Stokes, Mrs. W. B. Hill, Mrs. R. A. Felton, Miss Emmie S. Stewart, Mrs. Cora C. Snead, Mrs. E. C. Witter, Mrs. M. L. McLendon, Mrs. Mary S. A. Webb, Mrs. S. Blanchard, Mrs. M. W. Scomp, Mrs. J. L. Camp, Mrs. M. C. Rowe, and their associates and successors desire to be incorporated under the name of the "WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION OF GEORGIA."

The object of their organization, for which this charter is asked is to promote the cause of temperance by religious influences, by moral suasion, by educational methods, by legal prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating beverages, and by all such collateral means and agencies as will tend to the same purposes.

They have no one fixed place for carrying out said objects but operate through local branches of the organization in the different counties and through a state annual convention in which said local societies or unions are represented, but they desire to establish permanent headquarters in Atlanta, Fulton county.

Said corporation is not formed for the purposes of gain or financial profit and has no capital stock.

Petitioners pray that they may be incorporated under said corporate name for the term of twenty years and that they be invested with all the powers mentioned in section 1679 of the code of Georgia.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the superior Court of said County: The petition of C. W. Hunnicutt, Albert Bellingrath, L. L. Hunnicutt and J. E. Hunnicutt shows that they have associated themselves for pecuniary gain, under the name of
and that they desire that they, their associates and successors may become incorporated by and under that name, and, as a corporation, to exercise all the rights, powers and privileges herein set forth, or that may be exercised by such a corporation under the laws of Georgia.

The object of said association, and the principal business they propose to carry on, is the dealing in hardware, building material, mantels, stoves and grates, gas fixtures, house furnishing goods of every description, machinery, tools, steam heating and plumbing supplies, and any and all manner of articles or things made of any material whatever, including the manufacture of such articles, if they desire; also the erection of steam machinery and appliances, water and gas works, sewers, or any appliance or appurtenance thereof, and the furnishing of material for and the doing of any manner of work on or in connection therewith; and generally to engage in any contract for supplying any material, or doing any sort of work. A further object and business of said association, if they desire to engage therein, will be the dealing in real estate and personal property of any description, and the improvement thereof as they may desire.

They desire the privilege of disposing of, leasing or exchanging their property, and of doing anything in connection therewith that a natural person could not prohibit by law.

The amount of capital employed by them will be $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each, $70,000 of which will be actually paid in before commencing business, which amount they desire the privilege of increasing to $250,000, when, and as the board of directors may deem it to the interest of the corporation.

Their principal place of business will be in the city of Atlanta, said county, but they desire the privilege of having and maintaining agencies or places of business elsewhere.

The time for which they desire to be incorporated is twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that time, with all the rights, powers and privileges hereinbefore set forth, or that such a corporation could exercise under the laws of Georgia.

And petitioners will ever pray etc.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 28, 1891.

Arkansas and Her Veterans.

The Arkansas legislature has not only provided pensions for confederate veterans and their indigent widows, but it has also appropriated $10,000 for a veterans' home at Little Rock.

Virginia and North Carolina are already committed to the patriotic charity of providing homes for their needy veterans, and in the near future every southern state will follow their example.

Here in Georgia we have done well in the matter of pensions, and the state has an opportunity of securing the Veterans' Home, near Atlanta, by simply accepting it. Unlike Arkansas, the state will not have to make a heavy appropriation for the building and grounds, as they are tendered as a donation. The expense of keeping up the institution will, of course, be less every year, and in twenty or thirty years the property, greatly enhanced in value, will be available for any purpose the legislature may see proper to designate.

That Georgia will take advantage of the generous offer made by the directors of the Veterans' Home is not to be doubted. The men in gray never stopped to count the cost of taking care of us, and, now that it is necessary for us to take care of a few of them, the people of Georgia are not going to lag behind.

A Silvery Reminiscence.

An exchange remarks that "the silver situation has its interesting points." Not to be outdone in courtesy we take pleasure in stating that the anti-silver situation is not without a curious interest of its own. Perhaps the most curious phase of the whole matter is the fact, now well established, that the free coinage senators from the west cast their votes against the remonetization of silver when they supported the law that is now on the statute book. Whether they were befuddled by John Sherman's arguments, or befooled by their own impatience, it would be difficult to say. They had ample warning. THE CONSTITUTION told them when the present law was pending that the intention of the measure was to prevent remonetization and to keep silver in its present position as an article of merchandise.

The act will have another effect which was not unforeseen by those who take a serious interest in the question of remonetization. Under its operations, the price of silver has not advanced. Although the law provides for the purchase by the government of about all the product of the American mines, the market price of silver has gradually dropped. This is due, first, to a bear movement organized by the goldbug capitalists of this country and Europe; and, second, to a sort of tacit understanding on the part of those who do not reason that, if the purchase of the output of the American mines by the government fails to raise the price of silver free coinage, itself would fail.

The democrats saw the trap that was set for the free coinage men, and refused to support the bill, but the free coinage republicans walked into it blindly, and if they can find any satisfaction in the result they have certainly earned the right to enjoy it. They voted to put the tariff screws on their constituents for the benefit of the east by supporting the McKinley law, and they were almost persuaded to vote for the infamous force bill. They knuckled and truckled to the Wall street and New England element, and all they have to show as the result of their subserviency is a silver law which will go farther towards discrediting and discounting the arguments in favor of free coinage than all other influences combined.

Blaine and Harrison.

When, some weeks ago, the Washington correspondent of The New York Tribune, in the report of an authorized interview with Mr. Benjamin Harrison, declared that Mr. Blaine had waived all claims to the republican nomination in 1892, there was a good deal of surprise manifested by that large class of republicans who are under no pecuniary obligations to the administration. Even The Tribune, whose editor is drawing the comfortable salary and enjoying the social honors attached to the position of American minister to France, protested against the statement, and to that extent attempted to discredit the information obtained at first hands by its correspondent.

This is a matter which the republicans may be left to quarrel over; but there can scarcely be a doubt that the correspondent of The Tribune obtained his information direct from Mr. Harrison himself. The correspondent is very well known in journalism, and has made some reputation in his business. His interview was with Mr. Harrison, and it was what may be termed an invited interview. In other words, Mr. Harrison had some remarks to make which he wanted the public to hear, and so he sent for the correspondent of a newspaper whose editor is under personal obligations to the administration.

Although The Tribune has denied that Mr. Blaine is no longer a candidate, we hear nothing from Mr. Blaine himself. He is very quiet—so quiet, indeed, that Mr. Harrison would be justified in suspecting that he is up to some mischief. The idea which the correspondent was called on to advertise—the idea, in fact, that was the pith and marrow of the interview—was that Mr. Blaine was not only not a candidate for the nomination, but that he was engaged in stirring up "the boys" in behalf of Mr. Harrison for a second term. And yet the closest friends of Mr. Blaine declare that this is not so. Even The Tribune, whose mouth is practically closed by the office its editor holds, is disposed to doubt this amazing piece of news about Mr. Blaine, and we hear rumors, not altogether vague, to the effect that some of the republican senators from the west, especially those who could not be brought to see the beauties of the force bill, are on the point of organizing a movement which has for its purpose the nomination of Mr. Blaine.

It is a matter of indifference to democrats at this juncture whether Mr. Harrison or Mr. Blaine receives the republican nomination, but it will be both interesting and amusing to watch the contest which must inevitably occur between the friends of these two leaders—if Mr. Harrison, by any stretch of the imagination, can be called a leader. The movement in favor of Mr. Blaine, to which we have referred, has not taken shape, but it is under way. Meanwhile, we are given to understand that it is to be a dead secret so far as Mr. Blaine is concerned. He has nothing whatever to do with it, and he is to know nothing about it at all. It is to be printed in the newspapers in advertising type if necessary, and it is to be talked of in the hotels and highways, but it is to be kept a profound secret from Mr. Blaine.

There is no doubt that Mr. Blaine's recent record presents a very pretty anchor of hope for the conservative republicans to cling to. He opposed the violent features of the McKinley law, he opposed the force bill, and he has invented a species of reciprocity which is just high enough in the air to be beyond the reach of critical and unfriendly investigation. As to the popularity of the two men there can be no comparison between them. Mr. Blaine has what his friends call "personal magnetism," and he is very well liked even by his political opponents. He is the most popular republican in the United States today, and he can get the nomination without lifting a finger. As for Mr. Harrison, he has no friends excepting those he has bought and paid for, and, in negotiating these purchases, he has made two enemies where he has secured one friend.

It may be that Mr. Harrison, as he hinted to The Tribune correspondent, has included Mr. Blaine among his purchases. If so, the little contest that has been advertised will not come off.

Senator Gorman's Visit.

Senator Gorman's brilliant and successful fight against the odious force bill is so gratefully remembered by our people that it afforded them more than ordinary pleasure to welcome the distinguished Marylander to Atlanta yesterday.

The senator never rendered the republic a greater service than when he planned and carried through the adroit parliamentary tactics which finally resulted in shelving the bayonet election bill.

The south and the entire country owe a debt of gratitude to this fearless and able democratic champion, and during his stay in Atlanta every effort was made to make his visit a pleasant and memorable one.

The Taxation of Incomes.

Among the advocates of a tax on incomes, in the last congress, the Hon. Scott Wike, of Illinois, was one of the ablest and most prominent.

Mr. Wike, in his speech on the subject, quoted THE CONSTITUTION'S editorial in favor of taxing incomes, and not only endorsed it, but fully elaborated the views therein expressed. His plan is to raise at least $130,000,000 a year from incomes in excess of $5,000, and to reduce the tariff and extend the free list so that the farmers and industrial classes will bear a smaller share of the burdens of taxation. The speaker showed that the income tax in this country as a war measure was successfully enforced, and the example of Great Britain was cited to prove the practicability and benefit of the measure as a permanent policy. Without this tax it is plain that there is no way of checking the rapid concentration of wealth in the hands of the few. On this point Mr. Wike said:

> If the facilities now afforded for the robbery of the people by the laws that require the poor to furnish the revenue for the support of the government and bounties to build up the fortunes of the rich, while the wealthy escape taxation, and thus securely and rapidly transfer the wealth of the country from the masses into the hands of the few, the advent of the billionaire will be quickly ushered in. It is estimated that a person now worth $200,000,000 will in forty years be a billionaire if his wealth increases at the rate of 4 per cent compound interest, which it easily may, and that on this hypothesis in sixty years there will be as many billionaires as there were millionaires twenty-five years ago.
>
> The accumulations of millionaires, however, are not made by interest, either simple or compound. Twenty-four or twenty-five years ago Mr. Gould is understood to have first become a millionaire. The million that made him such at that time has in twenty-five years increased to $200,000,000—that would be at the rate of 20,000 per cent!
>
> If he had started twenty-five years ago with his present fortune and each million of it had increased at the same rate the original million did, he would now be worth $40,000,000,000, or about two-thirds of the entire wealth of the country.
>
> If every million of that $200,000,000 increases in the same proportion in the future that the first million has increased to this date, then, of course, in twenty-five years from now the amount of that fortune would be $40,000,000,000.
>
> It is not contended, however, that it will, but it is contended that the increase in the first million has not been circumscribed by rates of interest, but has been attained by one act of spoliation after another that has been rendered possible by the laws that facilitate the increase of fortunes at the expense of labor and smaller holdings; and these laws continuing to furnish these opportunities for the increase of wealth, there need be no extended or remote limit set to the coming in of the billionaire, as he is liable to break in upon us at an hour we know not. In fact they may be reasonably expected in numbers within the next five, ten, or twenty years.

The experience of the past is a sufficient warning. For each billionaire we may expect to see a million paupers. It is right that wealth should bear the burdens of the taxation required to support the government, and it is a cruel injustice to allow those burdens to crush the classes least able to bear them.

Sooner or later this reform in taxation must come, and if congress holds back much longer the demand for state action in the matter will force it to execute the will of the people.

IN A little editorial allusion to Mr. Dana yesterday, we attempted to describe him as a "jovialist," but the typographical demon was called in and the term became journalist. Thus a new word was lost to the dictionaries.

THERE ARE two ways to get to West End. One is to go around, and the other is to take a nigh out through the woods.

ALCIDE VADORO, a young Greek, who is now looking for work in New York, inherited a fortune of $2,000,000 five years ago. Horse-racing and cotton futures used up his money. He speaks seven languages, but is now glad to work for his board.

NEW REMEDIES for destroying the liquor appetite are being discovered so rapidly that the habitual drinker has to be on his guard all the time to prevent the loss of what is his greatest pleasure and greatest curse. The temperance scientists are so cute that when they have half a chance they jerk a man out of a roaring jamboree and turn him into one of the ornaments of a Womans' Christian Temperance Union platform before he knows what is going on. We live in a wonderful age.

A FRENCHMAN in the province of Lorraine left a legacy of $800 to France to aid in buying arms for the next war with Germany. As he was dead and out of reach the German authorities did the only thing they could do. They arrested his brother for sedition and conspiracy.

ONE OF the leading society women of Boston is Mrs. Jack Gardner. She is thirty-five, eccentric, plain and wide-mouthed, but she has the prettiest neck, shoulders and arms in all Boston, and is worth a round million. She is original, brilliant and accomplished, and captivates everybody. Many strangers take her for a widow, but somewhere in the gloaming there lurks a Mr. Jack Gardner who makes himself useful by footing the bills. What a happy man he must be!

MRS. MARY LEASE, the woman who caused Senator Ingalls's defeat in Kansas, is tall, plain-faced and thin. During the recent campaign she made numerous speeches in which she attacked Ingalls with astonishing vigor. The Detroit Free Press says of her: "Mary E. Lease is the daughter of an Irish nobleman who fled from Erin to America with his family during the civil war. He enlisted in the union army, was captured by the confederates and died in Andersonville. His brother and son also lost their lives in the civil war, and Mary was thrown upon her own resources. She proved equal to the necessities imposed upon her, and besides earning her own living found time for study and the wide reading into which her ambition led her. She was born on September 11, 1853. She married and is the mother of four children. Mrs. Lease is an active Knight of Labor and has been elected master workman of one of the largest assemblies in the United States. She goes about agitating and organizing the working people, and, as she says, trying to educate them to a standard which is constantly to grow higher. She writes much, both in prose and verse, for publications which are interested in general reforms, and is a member of the Wichita bar, a founder and promoter of several clubs for the advancement of women, a member of the prohibition lecture bureau and the mother of the Citizens' Alliance movement, which had so much to do with the defeat of Mr. Ingalls last November. She has often been urged to accept a place on the state ticket, but has always firmly declined to run for any political office whatever.

THE GEORGIA PRESS.

From The Atlanta Constitution: "It is said that the average California legislator charges $2,000 for his vote. In the matter of a senatorship this is not any too much."

How do you know?—Evening Journal.

Our figure may be an overestimate, but a much less sum would do the work if used advantageously on certain unscrupulous lawyers whose consciences notoriously go to the highest bidder.

Editor Anderson, of The Covington Star, was in the city yesterday.

The Illustrated South is a monthly publication issued from the office of The Columbus Evening Ledger, at $2.50 per annum. As its name indicates, it will be devoted to southern interests and will do much good in advertising Geoogia and the south.

Hear all the Georgia editors,
Who toil for little profit,
Cry out to friends and creditors:
"Free silver—and lots of it!"

Charles J. Bayne is making a reputation as a wit in the columns of The Augusta Chronicle.

Many of the Georgia weeklies wear an Easter face this week. The Ringgold New South came out in bright blue—not an index of the editor's feelings, however.

Editor Shaver, of The Chattanooga Evening News, is so much of a Georgian that we always admit him to this column. He has given the people of Chattanooga a practical evidence of what a Georgian can do with a Tennessee newspaper. The News is the brightest exchange that reaches this office from that section.

And now they want Editor Stovall, of The Augusta Chronicle, to write up the Georgia cracker in his true character. We commend the suggestion to The Century.

The rural editors have one consolation—they can corner the market on Easter eggs.

"We are late this week, dear brothers," writes a Georgia editor. "On Monday last we hired a horse and buggy for $3 and started out on a collection tour. After traveling four days, the horse died with the blind staggers, and we had to foot it seven miles, having collected 70 cents during our trip. We are not complaining, however, as this sort of thing is not new to us. We have been in the newspaper business seven years."

GENERAL GEORGIA GOSSIP.

Georgia is threatened with a "wildcat industry." At the pace Augusta is going, it will take all the wildcats in the state and one-half the bulldogs in the country to supply the demand. It is rumored that a company is being formed to capture all the cats in the swamps for fighting purposes, and if bulldogs cannot be found in this country to whip them in the ring, they will be imported from Great Britain. The cats are ahead so far.

The Hamilton Hustler, referring to the death of Colonel Rutherford, makes the statement that "Woolfolk would have been cleared if he could have had a hearing by an impartial judge and jury." The Georgia newspapers are making The Hustler "hustle" for that statement, which does grave injustice to Georgia judges and juries. Editors should think twice before committing themselves in that manner.

That section of Georgia known as Fort Valley is indeed prolific. Western farmers and others desiring to get rich in a hurry are taking advantage of the inducements the town and county offer. But the following will make the stranger and the uninitiated open their eyes in astonishment. The Fort Valley Leader says:

> Taylor Williams planted his entire farm in cotton last year and the yield was simply immense. So great was it that, after he had gathered all the cotton, he could gin and market, he gathered the stalks, had them trimmed and sold them to Henry Hiley for fishing poles. Owing to the dullness of the cotton market and the present small demand for fishing rods, he has decided to plant corn this year and sell the stalks for telegraph poles.

The state exchanges are advocating the passage of a dog law again. The Greensboro Herald-Journal says that it is not right to treat the matter with a sneer, and sums up the good results such a law would have as follows:

> The greatest benefit will result in a protection to the raisers of sheep and the consequent impetus which will be given to sheep husbandry. Many sections of Georgia, indeed almost every section, are well adapted to the raising of sheep and the production of wool. Under the present system of diversified agriculture, which is becoming more and more closely pursued every year, the greatest attention should be devoted and the strongest encouragement given to every branch of farming. Wool production could be made a profitable adjunct to nearly every farm, and would afford a cash revenue that would largely increase the income of the farmer. At present this branch of husbandry is comparatively dead, and it has been brought to its present state by the annoyance and loss occasioned on sheep ranches by roving dogs.

The burning of the hotel building in Madison last Monday morning recalls an interesting incident. In 1849, when it was being built, Mr. L. Markham deposited inside of one of the big columns in front a quart bottle of fine apple brandy. He wrapped the bottle in a newspaper, and putting it in a small box he attached a string to the package and let it down in the hollow space inside the column, which had then been built about six feet high. The package bore the following inscription:

> L. MARKHAM,
> INDEPENDENT ORDER OF LIBERALS.

The newspaper used was a copy of The New York Express, and contained Henry Clay's "Compromise" speech. As the work progressed it was sealed from view and has remained undisturbed for forty-two years. The pillars will no doubt soon be torn down, and Mr. Markham will have the satisfaction of seeing his long-hidden bottle of brandy again.

A committee of the city council of Augusta is hard at work upon the matter of devising ways and means to protect the city against floods. The most popular plan which has been submitted up to date is that for a dam at Long Shoals, twenty-seven miles above the rocks, which will cost $200,000, the city of Augusta to buy a good dredge boat, the best and most powerful to be had, say $20,000, with a crew of say $1,000 monthly for wages, all told $30,000 for boat and crew for first year, and dig out the bottom of the Savannah river, and, after giving 313 working days' labor at the dredging, and dumping out, say thirty miles from the bridge, see what has been done in the first twelve months. The object is to lower the Savannah river as much as some propose to raise the streets, and in two or three years to reduce the water at high water at the bridges to fifteen to seventeen feet. Various plans are being discussed in the Augusta newspapers, and the subject will not be set aside until something practical has been accomplished.

GATHERED AT RANDOM.

"The growth of the secret orders of Atlanta is something phenomenal," said a gentleman speaking of the matter yesterday.

"It is strange to me that there is not an establishment in Atlanta for the manufacture of regalia for the secret orders. There is no estimating the amount of money that goes out of the city for the purchase of uniforms and regalia for these societies.

"A small capital invested in that way would start a manufactory that would give employment to a number of skilled lady seamstresses, and the money paid for the regalia, instead of going out of the city, would remain here and be added to the business of the city. Many thousands of dollars would thus be saved."

Mr. M. Tischman, deputy grand-master of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, has just returned from a very successful trip to Mobile. While there he organized four lodges with a total membership of 300. In recognition of his work he was presented with a handsome gold watch by the citizens of Mobile. This great order is increasing in strength all over the south.

A day or two ago a charming, black-eyed lady book agent called upon Mr. Andy Stewart.

Everybody knows how soft-hearted Andy is, but nobody ever dreamed that he would throw off on a friend.

"I tell you," said he, "I'll subscribe for the book if Henry Tanner will."

"Who is Henry Tanner?" she asked.

"Oh, don't you know? He is one of the cleverest and most genial of men. He is clerk of the superior court. You just go into the clerk's office and call for him. He is a very handsome man, and you will know him by his distingue appearance."

"Well?"

"Don't look straight at him, but kinder cast your eye and look at him in your most winning manner. If he subscribes, I will also, if you will call tomorrow."

The sequel of the story is that A. P. Stewart's name now appears on the list of prominent men who have subscribed.

Mr. Jake Menko, that prince of commercial travelers, has been in the city for several days, but returns to his home in Macon today. Jake is soon to be wedded to Miss Wessolowski, daughter of Ex-Senator Wessolowski, of Albany, Ga. The marriage will occur in May, the month of flowers, and his friends all over the country join in the wish that ever-blooming flowers of happiness may mark their way in life.

There was a funny case in Justice Owens's court the other day. Butler Maxwell, who keeps a barber shop in the Gate City Bank building, had grown weary after a hard day's work, and was dozing in his chair, while the barbers in his employ were rattling the brass checks that they had received for various shaves and haircuts during the day.

A policeman passed the door of the shop, and hearing the familiar rattle of checks, he made a case against Maxwell for keeping a gaming house.

A warrant was sworn out, and Maxwell was carried before Justice Owens on the charge of keeping a gaming house.

After Maxwell awoke to the full realization of the serious charge against him, he found no trouble in proving his innocence, and the case was dismissed. But it will be sometime before he allows himself to doze in his chair after hours.

Captain W. G. Raoul, president of the Mexican Central railway, spent yesterday in the city. While here he let the contract for his new home on Peachtree. This will be located next to Mr. John Clarke's, and will be one of the handsomest, if not the handsomest, on the street.

Speaking of the rumor that he has decided to come here to be president of a bank, Captain Raoul said:

"Nothing has been settled about that matter. It is true that I am interested in a charter obtained at the last session of the legislature, but as for my coming here in any such capacity—that hasn't been settled. I expect, however, to call Atlanta my home. I am compelled to be in New York about half my time, and as Atlanta is practically half way between New York and Mexico, I want a home in Atlanta. This city is, in my opinion, the most delightful place possible to live in, and my wife and family want to be here."

Emmett Womack told two or three new ones at the Kimball last night and went to bed early. He will beam upon his Atlanta friends today.

"The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen now has a membership of about 22,000," said Grand Chief Sargeant in talking about the order last night. "It is estimated that there are about 37,000 firemen in the country. Why are they not all in? Well, there are several reasons why—mainly because many have not been in the service long enough to become members. During the past six months the order has gone ahead more rapidly than ever in its history. By thorough organization we are bettering the condition of the men each year. Here in the south there has been a good increase of wages for the past few years. As to these present troubles, I am not prepared to talk, but may be able to do so tomorrow."

Grand Chief Sargeant has many friends here in Atlanta, made during his visit at the time of the convention of the order. He is a large, fine-looking man, with a frank, open face, and impresses one as being a man of power and executive ability.

Mr. A. P. Burbank, a famous actor and dramatic reader, passed through the city yesterday on his way to the Albany Chautauqua where he will deliver some of his readings. Mr. Burbank is probably the foremost reader on the stage.

MORE ABOUT TOBACCO.

THE CONSTITUTION has received a number of letters in response to an editorial on the culture of tobacco in this state, which appeared in these columns recently. These letters show that interest in the subject is widespread; that the tobacco industry has taken firm hold in Georgia, and that tobacco growers in other states are greatly interested in the work which is being done here.

Mr. H. E. Harmon, editor of The Southern Tobacco Journal, Winston, N. C., has had exceptional opportunities for studying the advantages of the tobacco crop over cotton, or any other crop that thrives in the south, and he writes to say that he is fully convinced tobacco will grow just as well all over the upper part of South Carolina and Georgia as anywhere in North Carolina or Virginia. He says that he is certain that the culture of the weed in this state will prove a blessing to the farmers, and for their encouragement he gives the following results of experiments made in eight counties in South Carolina where tobacco is being grown successfully:

Mr. F. M. Rogers raised 25,000 pounds of leaf on twenty acres, and the entire crop will sell for $6,000 or over.

Mr. P. Whipple planted ten acres and grew 1,500 per acre. Sold his entire crop for over $200 per acre, and this is his first year's experience.

Mr. D. M. Smoot, of Darlington county, planted five acres and realized $185 per acre for his crop. His yield was 1,240 pounds per acre.

Mr. S. B. Sessoms averaged 1,260 pounds per acre on his whole crop and sold for $185 per acre.

Mr. F. M. Rogers, Jr., grew 35,000 pounds on twenty-five acres, the estimated value of which is $6,500, or $260 per acre. The cost of this crop was $2,150 all told.

Mr. M. S. Haynesworth sold the lowest grade of his crop this year for 12 cents around. In his first crop year before last he averaged 1,060 pounds per acre, and sold at an average of 17½ cents net. His tobacco cost him 7½ cents all told.

Mr. J. T. Rogers made an average this year of 1,200 pounds per acre on twenty acres.

Mr. D. M. Smoot makes a statement showing that he has made a net profit of $125 per acre on his entire crop.

Mr. H. T. Harllee on his first year's crop of fifteen acres made a net profit of $700.

It will be seen from the above that tobacco-growing in South Carolina is no longer an experiment, but a certainty, and it is confidently predicted that in a few years the tobacco industry will spread over that entire section, and become the most remunerative of the farmers' crops.

The growers of North Carolina are anxious to hear from Georgia, and will do what they can to assist the farmers in this important work. Tobacco growing is little more than an experiment here, as yet, but if the interest in it does not wane we are convinced that it will yet become a great Georgia industry which will enrich the farmers and the state.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION

Will Return to Atlanta Tomorrow from Their Inspection Tour.

MACON, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—The Georgia railway commission, consisting of L. N. Trammell, chairman, Alex. I. Erwin and J. W. Robertson, are expected to leave Jacksonville tonight via the East Tennessee road, and will reach Atlanta tomorrow. Commissioner-elect Virgil Powers has already returned to Macon. He went with the commission as far as Palatka. From Palatka the commission went to St. Augustine, and visited other Florida points.

The ostensible object of the trip of the commission was to make a tour of inspection of the Georgia Southern and Florida road at the request of Receiver Sparks. It is said that the commission was highly pleased with the Georgia Southern, and considered it one of the best new roads they ever saw.

THE CHARGE WAS PROVEN.

Brown Indicted for Burning Down His Store.

ROME, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—A most sensational turn was taken in the case of Brown vs. Abramson, tried in the Floyd superior court, an account of which appeared in today's CONSTITUTION.

The jury brought in their verdict in favor of the defendant. Brown had sued Abramson for $10,000 for slander, for Abramson saying that Brown burnt the store for the insurance money. Brown not only lost his case, but the grand jury, learning of the evidence, has found a true bill against Brown, and Brown lies in jail tonight accused of arson by burning the store. A reporter visited the jail, but Brown was uncommunicative, and had nothing to say about the case.

THIS TALKS FOR GEORGIA.

The Improved Business of Her Railroads Demonstrated.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 27.—(Special.)—The Central made a big showing last month. The February earnings of the system show a gross increase over the earnings of February a year ago, in round numbers, of $45,000, and the net earnings show an increase of $53,000. There was a decrease in the operating expenses, compared with last year, of $8,000. The net increase from investments shows an increase of $48,000, making an increase of the total income of nearly $102,000. The gross earnings for the last eight months of the present fiscal year show an increase of $189,000 over the corresponding time last year.

PEOPLE HERE AND THERE.

NYE.—Mrs. "Bill" Nye and children have gone to their new home at Asheville, N. C., and William will follow as soon as he has launched a few more soul-corroding word pictures upon an innocent and helpless world.

BOOTH.—Edwin Booth recently declined an offer of $25,000 with royalties, for the story of his life and reminiscences. He replied to the publisher that five times the sum wouldn't tempt him, for he detested writing.

PLON-PLON.—Plon-Plon's death recalls his invitation of Rachel, the actress, to a supper at which one of her fellow-guests was Khalil-Bey. She was deeply affronted at the openly expressed distaste of the oriental for her personal appearance. Rachel, as used to be said of Sarah Barnhardt in the early days of her career, possessed "much grace, but no grease;" and the angular elbows and bony chest of the queen of the Parisian stage were not at all to the boy's taste. "What do you think of her?" asked the host of him toward the end of the evening. "Dear prince, in my own country we drown such women as that!" was the reply. Rachel overheard him and naturally she never forgave him.

RILEY.—James Whitcomb Riley lives on the wing; now in the best Indianapolis hotel, then with his sister. The next he is off somewhere lecturing. "Think of it," he says, "I never owned a desk in my life, and don't know what it is to have a library." He was asked where he wrote. "Everywhere," he answered; "sometimes on the kitchen table at my sister's house; then in the parlor, and again on the printer's case—just where the fancy seizes me. 'When the Frost Is on the Pum'kin' was written on the end of a tall, standing desk in obedience to the editor's cry for 'copy.' The trick line had been running in my head for some time, and when I was told that I ought to have a poem in the next day's paper, I just took a piece of paper and wrote out the poem on the end of the desk, handed it in and never for a moment dreamed of its subsequent success."

JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON.

MEMORIAL SERVICES IN HIS HONOR AT THE CAPITOL LAST NIGHT.

Speeches by Colonel W. L. Calhoun, Captain E. P. Howell, Mr. H. H. Cabaniss, and Others.

Memorial services were held at the capitol last night, in the hall of representatives, in honor of Joseph E. Johnston.

The hall was well filled. The Ladies' Memorial Association and the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' Association attended in two bodies; and besides these a large and representative audience was present.

It was a notable gathering. The occasion was one that called for the close interest and appreciation of the audience; and now and then the old rebel yell would start up with a spontaneity and earnestness that showed how loyal men are to their heroes.

President W. L. Calhoun followed in a brief and eloquent eulogy to the memery of the great soldier.

He then introduced Captain E. P. Howell.

"The confederacy had many loyal supporters," said Captain Howell, "but not one whose heart was more loyal than his. He was, when the war began, quartermaster general of the United States army. He had won honor and distinction in that service, and greater honors awaited him there. He considered carefully before he decided upon his course, and then gave his all to the confederacy. There was never an instant when he wavered in what he believed was right.

"The greatest tribute ever paid him as a soldier was by General Sherman in this city. I heard General Sherman tell here how and when he heard the news that Johnston had been removed. 'I was the happiest man that day,' said Sherman, 'in this country.. I knew that my task then was all but accomplished.'"

The next feature was the recitation of an original poem by Mrjor C. W. Hubner:

> Sleep, hero with the spotless name!
> In Greenmount's sacred shade,
> The full-orbed splendor of thy fame,
> By death now deathless made;
>
> Somewhere, where blessed spirits dwell,
> And stars serenest shine,
> Enthroned in light ineffable,
> What glorious peace is thine!
>
> We know that all is well with thee,
> Forever and for aye,
> Thou conqueror of mortality,
> Crowned with eternal day!
>
> Then let us not bedew his bier,
> With bitter tears of pain,
> Rather with tears of joy, as clear
> And sweet as April rain;
>
> For he hath won a victory,
> Beyond the world's acclaim,
> And wears a crown, whose radiancy
> Dims all the stars of fame.
>
> Peace to his ashes! 'neath the sod
> Lay the old hero down,
> And leave him there, in trust, to God,
> And safe in his renown.

The next speaker was Mr. H. H. Cabaniss. He paid a glowing tribute to General Johnston's capacity as a soldier, and to his moral character.

General W. S. Walker was introduced and greeted with continued applause. He was, as those present already knew, with Johnston in more than one war, and a thoroughly competent judge of his military services.

General Walker's eulogy was a calm and irrefutable array of facts—a review of the leading incidents in the record of the great soldier.

"I can do no better," said he, "than to echo the sentiments of his soldiers, a proverb in the army—'Old Joe's way was right!'"

Dr. J. William Jones was next called for.

The speaker was at his best with the audience before him. He is a great favorite with the old soldiers of Atlanta, and every sentence was applauded.

Captain H. H. Colquitt was the last speaker.

"Johnston," said he, "cannot be done justice yet. He commanded nearly always a retreating army, and the cause he fought for was lost. But his place in history is certain, for his name is upon its brightest page. We shall not look upon his like again."

CHARGES AGAINST A JUDGE

That He Presided Over Court While Intoxicated, and Illegally Signed Blanks.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 27.—The Maine legislature assembled in joint convention today to consider the matter of removing from office, by an address to the governor, Judge Charles S. Hamilton, of Biddeford. He is charged with intemperance, immorality, licentiousness while a judge, presiding over court while intoxicated, and illegally signing and issuing for officers's use blank legal documents, when no cases were pending to warrant their issue. Hamilton's counsel denied the charges, claiming that they are not properly drawn, and that sufficient notice had not been given to prepare a defense, and asked that petitioners be ordered to furnish a bill of particulars.

BY WAY OF COLUMBUS

Comes News of the Existence of Glanders in Dawson.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—Reliable reports from Dawson are to the effect that five of the horses that were condemned by a Columbus veterinary surgeon a few weeks since, have died, and that others of the twelve, are in a bad condition. These dispatches mentioned that there was a great kick over the matter, and that an Atlanta surgeon, who had been summoned to Dawson by the mayor, denied that the animals were afflicted with glanders. John W. Fox, a prominent stock dealer of Dawson, was in the city today, and states that he has just lost a $250 animal, which a Columbus veterinary surgeon had pronounced afflicted with glanders.

THIS GOOD INDIAN IS DEAD.

He First Had a White Wife and Then a Black One.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—A full-blooded Cherokee Indian, known as Sam Tompkins, who has resided in Columbus for over half a century, died at his home in the suburbs. He had followed the trade of a shoemaker for a long time. He was born in Virginia in 1811, and came here quite a youth many years ago. He married a white woman, who died. He subsequently married a mulatto woman, who survives him. He had professed Christianity, and when the Salvation Army was here two years ago, he was conspicuous in their proceedings.

The Defect Appreciated.

From The Mobile Register.

If we had better juries we believe a stop could soon be put to lynch law in the south. Violent and headstrong men become infuriated from time to time when juries fail to convict, and take the law into their own hands. Because many of our juries are not what they should be, these violent and excitable men assume that the men who are acquitted are guilty. Sometimes they are and sometimes they are not, but the lynchers take the chances. If our juries were what they ought to be no excuse could be offered for lynch law.

SENATOR GORMAN,

THE GREAT DEMOCRATIC LEADER, SPENDS A DAY IN ATLANTA.

He Is Entertained at the Capital City Club. He Talks, but Not on Politics—The Members of His Party.

A champion of the south
And a possible candidate for the presidency.

Senator Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland, was in Atlanta yesterday.

He spent the day here and was entertained by a prominent Atlanta gentleman.

Senator Gorman, who is accompanied by Congressman-elect Barnes Compton, of Maryland, Mr. E. G. Riggs, a prominent Washington banker, and Mr. Linden Kent, attorney for the Richmond and Danville road, reached Atlanta yesterday morning from Florida.

The Party Arrives.

At the depot Senator Gorman and party were met by a number of prominent Atlanta gentlemen, among them Judge W. T. Newman, Mr. Clark Howell and Mr. B. H. Hill.

They were escorted to the Kimball, and after a short stay were driven to the Capital City club, where they were entertained by Judge Newman.

Judge Newman's guests at the luncheon were Senator Gorman, Congressman Compton, Mr. Kent, Mr. Riggs, Colonel E. P. Howell, Hon. John T. Glenn, Mr. Henry Jackson, Hon. W. A. Hemphill, Mr. R. J. Lowry, Mr. B. H. Hill, Judge Tompkins, Mr. Hoke Smith and Captain H. H. Colquitt.

Most of the afternoon was spent at the club. Afterwards the party was taken for a short drive, in the course of which they paid their respects to Senators Brown and Colquitt.

The evening was spent at the Kimball, where a number of gentlemen called and paid their respects.

Senator Gorman.

Probably no other senator would be more warmly received in Atlanta, and the south generally, than Senator Arthur P. Gorman.

He is the man who led so tellingly the opposition to the force bill, and to whom probably more than any other one man the defeat of that infamous measure is due.

Personally, he is a magnetic man, and his voice is a great power in national councils.

He is now being spoken of quite generally as one of the probable democratic candidates for the presidential chair in 1892.

In many respects Senator Gorman is a remarkable man. From a page in the senate he has won his way to a leading seat in that distinguished body, with a fair chance of gaining the highest office in the gift of the American people.

No Politics.

"There is no politics in my visit to the south—nothing but pleasure," was Senator Gorman's reply to a question about his visit. "I came simply for rest and to enjoy the warm air and bright sunshine that I have found so plentiful. When I left I put politics behind me, and that is one subject I won't talk on."

"But we want to know about 1892?"

"Eighteen-ninety-two," repeated the senator, "why, that is a long way off. Matters which seem to be issues now may be relegated to the rear by that time. At any rate it is too early to talk about the matter."

He gave the same sort of an answer to a question about the gubernatorial race in his own state which is being so much discussed.

But on subjects relating to the south, outside of politics, he would talk, and freely.

"Evidences of growth and prosperity I have found on every side," he said. "My drive through Atlanta, for instance, has delighted me. Of course we think we learn all about the growth of these southern cities through the newspapers, but we get no adequate idea until we investigate for ourselves. Then we open our eyes. Yes, indeed, the south will show the great growth of the country in the next ten years."

The party will leave sometime this morning, but in just what direction has not yet been settled upon. They had expected to leave for Birmingham last night, but they had been traveling so continuously that they determined to get a good night's rest at the Kimball.

WANTS TO BE A LABORER,

And With the Laborers Stand in the Treasury Department.

Elijah Long, a well-known negro of this city, has made application to the secretary of the treasury for a position as laborer in the treasury department. In his letter he makes reference to his high republican support in this city.

His petition is signed by W. A. Pledger, S. A. Darnell, Olin C. Fuller, Hugh Angier, E. A. Angier, J. McHenry, C. C. Wimbish, Smith Easly, J. R. Lewis, R. S. Lovinggood, A. E. Buck and Will Height. The latter adds to his signature the gratifying phrase: "In view of the above endorsements." Colonel Buck adds a few words urging the appointment.

PERSONAL.

JUDGE EMORY SPEER, wife and children spent yesterday in this city, the guests of their kinsman, Major D. N. Speer. Judge Speer and family were returning from Washington city, and left for their home in Macon via the Central railroad.

MR. J. W. WALDEN, one of Macon's most popular commercial men, is in the city.

MR. W. L. COGHLIN, a prominent young banker of Toledo, O., is the guest of his brother, Mr. J. D. Coghlin, at the Kimball.

FROM OUR NOTEBOOKS.

A White 'Possum.—Hon. John J. Falvey, of the park commission, captured a few nights ago a remarkable albino opossum, with pink eyes and a perfectly white coat of hair. It is a rare specimen of the genus 'possum and was treed about thirty miles from Atlanta in north Georgia, by Mr. Falvey and Joel Chandler Harris, both of whom are genuine lovers of the old time 'possum hunt. They were offered $50 for it by a prominent Whitehall street dry goods merchant as an attraction for his window, but instead have presented it to the zoo at Grant park, where it will be known as "Falvey Harris."

The Typewriter.—"On the typewriter," says an agent for writing machines, "much of the inventive genius of the age has been spent, but it is comparatively speaking, in recent years that it has been so perfected as to come into every-day use. The first machine patented was the Thurber, in 1843; yet few men ever heard of a typewriter until several years after the war."

It Was Good Friday.—Yesterday was Good Friday, and the markets throughout were closed.

No Reflection Meant.—Some exception has been taken to the reference in these columns to a reference to the little house in which Sayer was killed the other day. There was nothing in the statement that could have been taken as a reflection on the locality, and certainly no reflection was meant.

John and Jonathan.—"John and Jonathan" was the subject of the lecture delivered last night by Rev. Robert Nourse in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association—John the Englishman, and Jonathan the American.

The lecture was full of thought, with many touches of humor.

The ignorance on the part of the Englishman of American geography and American politics was graphically described and illustrated, and how little the Americans knew of England and especially of the great city of London.

The lessons that America can learn and has learned from England, and that England can learn from America, were dealt with, and the relations of the two countries.

The lecture was much enjoyed by all present.

His Feet Got Cold.—Five acquaintances were playing poker. In the course of the game six hands had been dealt, and on each hand W—— raked in the pot on a heart-flush.

B——, who had been "staying" to his cost, arose at this juncture, put on his hat and overcoat and with a look of disgust left the room.

"What ailed you the other night, Jim?" asked a friend a few days ago.

"What ailed me!" Well, just let me tell you. I ain't saying a word against that fellow, mind you—not a word. But when a man holds up a bobtail heart flush and fills it six times in succession, my feet get cold."

As to Some Re-elections.—"A review of the list of United States senators who have been chosen for the term of office beginning with the fifty-second congress," says a politician, "refutes the idea that political parties or republics are ungrateful. In only one case, that of Senator Hampton, except where there has been a change of party control, has a senator who sought re-election been defeated. The defeat of Mr. Ingalls, while not strictly speaking a party victory, was based on new political issues."

Its Skull Was Crushed.—Several days ago a baby with its skull mashed was found near the East Tennessee shops. Yesterday Lena White, a mulatto woman, living at No. 10 Gate City street, was put under arrest on suspicion of being the inhuman mother of the dead child.

A Splendid Lecture.—Rev. S. R. Belk's lecture on "The Great West" was delivered to standing room only at Payne's chapel last evening. After a short introductory he led his audience beyond the Mississippi. A graphic picture of cowboy life was painted. The agricultural resources, the mineral deposits and the growing cities were visited in turn. In conclusion he said:

"Standing as I do tonight in the sunniest clime and the fairest land this side the paradise of God, I see the time when this sunny southland will manufacture her own cotton, spin her own wool, make her own plows, build her own monuments and honor her own dead.

"Give us a Henry Grady at the head of every great newspaper and the sun will shine on the richest clime its dazzling eye ever beheld in its circuit through the heavens."

Mr. Belk is one of Atlanta's ablest lecturers, and has already been requested to repeat his lecture at some early day.

Red Men Jubilate.—Modoc Tribe, No. 3, Improved Order of Red Men, held its first meeting in the new wigwam, on Whitehall street, last night. No special dedication exercises were gone through, but the meeting was largely attended and unusually interesting on account of its being held in the new lodgeroom, which is located in the new building No. 111 Whitehall. The rooms are handsomely furnished, and in every way convenient and attractive. Modoc is one of the oldest tribes in the city, and is in a most flourishing condition.

The Clerks Have a Surgeon.—The Clerks' Mutual Aid Association elected, at their last meeting, Dr. Louis Jones as surgeon. The organization continues to boom.

Her Life Ended.—Miss Lula Davis, the poor girl of whose illness and destitution THE CONSTITUTION has spoken, died early this morning at the rooms she has occupied, 50½ Peachtree. She was twenty years old.

Good Roads Needed.—"Much has been said of the importance of good roads," says a gentleman from the country. "But too much cannot be said so long as Georgia has her present road system, which differs from most of the states only in assessing so many days of labor on every person subject to road duty and allowing a tax or a substituted instead of leving a road tax and permitting persons to work it out.

Both of these methods of road-making are well adapted to the productions of the poorest of highways.

"In the rural districts the working of the roads is left entirely to the farmers and other persons who live on the road, and the labor is under an overseer, who does not know the least about the theory or practice of road-building. A greater part of the time is spent in cracking jokes under the shade of a tree, or beside a brush-heap fire, as the season may require. What work is done consists in digging ditches on the side, which have no outlet and piling the dirt in the center of the road, thus forming an unfathomable heap of mud in wet weather."

Easter Service.—The Woman's Missionary Society of Grace church, corner Boulevard and Houston street, will hold an Easter service Sunday morning, for the benefit of the Scarrett Training school of Kansas City, Mo. The children will hold a similar exercise in the afternoon and for the same purpose.

MULES RUN AWAY

And a White Man Is Very Badly Hurt.

Mr. William Vincent was quite badly hurt by a runaway team yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Vincent, who is about fifty years old, was driving a team of mules attached to a wagon. At the corner of Hunter and Pryor streets he got out on the tongue between the mules to catch the lines which had dropped down.

When in this position his foot slipped, and he fell down between the animals. This frightened the mules, and they began running out Hunter street at a terrible pace.

Mr. Vincent hung to the pole, dragging along over the stones of the street until the mules ran against a tree at the corner of Loyd street.

When picked up, his right leg was found to be badly hurt, and several gashes were cut on his head. The city ambulance was sent for, and the injured man was removed in it to his home near Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Vincent was doing well when last heard from.

ALLIANCE POLITICS.

THE FIGHT FOR THE PRESIDENCY OPENED.

Colonel W. E. H. Searcy, of Griffin, Announced as a Candidate Against Colonel L. F. Livingston.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—For president of the Georgia State Alliance, Colonel W. E. H. Searcoy, of Spalding! So say the heads of the order in this county, and a better selection could not be made for the position with the world to pick from.

The announcement that Spalding would endorse Colonel Searcey for president was made in this morning's Call, and has been the theme of conversation by both business men and alliancemen here today. Not an unfavorable expression has been heard. It is not known whether or not Colonel Searcey is an aspirant for the position, or whether his friends are acting without his consent. THE CONSTITUTION made several fruitless efforts to see him and get an expression in the matter. Loving the order as he does, and conscious, as he must be of his ability to lead the order to greater success than it has attained, he cannot in justice to his loyalty ignore the wish of his brethren. Colonel Searcey is pre-eminently the man to succeed the Hon. L. F. Livingston as president of the Georgia alliance.

THE CITY COUNCIL

And the State Fair the Subject of a Very Interesting Letter.

MACON, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—THE CONSTITUTION has already made notice of the communication recently sent to the council of Macon by the state fair committee of the Georgia Agricultural Society, in reference to the state fair proposed to be held at Macon next October. The following interesting letter is from a well-known gentleman, a non-resident:

R. W. Jemison, Secretary, Macon.—Dear Sir: I have read the proceedings of the last two meetings of the Macon city council. I have not been particularly surprised. It seems to say to us, "You fellows are the stupidest set in the state. It seems impossible for you to take a hint. Time and again we have hinted to you in all sorts of ways that we don't want you. Some of these hints have amounted to down-right insults, but you are too stupid to see it. When you ask us to meet you we refuse. When you refer matters to us we refuse to consider them. You are just a set of simple fools, not to see that we don't want you, nor anybody else. Go to the devil with you." This is the easy and natural interpretation of the treatment we have read. Feeling like I am a Macon man, it hurts me. But let her go, Gallagher. I suppose we will meet once more.

THE BAGGAGE MASTER HURT

By a Large Rock Violently Thrown Into His Car.

MACON, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—This afternoon just as the Columbus passenger train was leaving Reynolds for Macon, the passengers in the smoking car were surpised to see the baggage master suddenly run in from the baggage car into the smoking car and fall speechless across the seat. He was very pale and appeared to be quite sick. It was some time before he could speak. He said that soon after leaving Reynolds some one threw a large rock through the car door, which struck him with great force in the groin, causing excruciating pain and almost made him faint. He thinks the rock was thrown by a negro the baggage master put off the train near Reynolds, some time ago, for not paying his fare. If the passenger train had not been flagging a train which was following close behind, the passenger train would have returned to the place from where the rock was thrown, and an effort made to catch the miscreant.

THE TRAINS MET,

And the Usual Result Followed After, But Without Any Fatality.

ROME, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—A collision occurred on the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus railroad this afternoon. The northbound passenger train due from Cedartown at 4 o'clock p. m., and the construction going south, collided between the passenger depot in Rome and the bridge crossing to East Rome. The passenger train ran through two cars of the construction train, completely demolishing them. The men jumped from the construction train and escaped uninjured. The passengers were shook up considerably, but no injuries occurred.

XENIONIA.

The above play was given at Concordia hall last night.

The play contains a maiden, a lover and a villain. The remainder is surmised. Unprecedented, however, in theatrical history, the villain is slain in a duel, the lover is triumphant.

The performance is a highly creditable one, both to the playwright and the participants. No better play has appeared at Concordia hall this week. The young ladies were especially good, and when the poor old father finally discovers his daughter and cries: "Found at last," the audience was moved to tears.

The scenic effects were really fine for juvenile efforts, and contrary, perhaps to expectation, were managed smoothly.

A peculiar feature was the tendency of the audience to laugh. Even when the maiden was stolen—a heart-rending scene—no one thought to cry, but yielding to the infection, actually laughed.

The play closed with a banquet, and, as the audience couldn't join, they arose and departed, and the curtain descended on a performance of which the young people should feel proud.

There will be a repetition this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Young Men's library.

Tonight the boys will play "on their own hook." All of the boys and girls in town ought to be present. Your money's worth is positively guaranteed, and then a worthy cause gets the benefit of it. Come one, come all.

A NEW PRISON NEEDED.

A Strong Complaint Against the Condition of the Police Station.

"I was treated more like an animal than a human being, and I want you to quote me as saying that the city prison is kept in a deplorable condition."

The speaker was Mr. George Roberts, a well-known young Atlanta man.

"I know what I am talking about," he continued, "for I have just been kept there for two days and nights on a trumped-up charge. My case was called today and was dismissed, nobody appearing against me."

Mr. Roberts spoke at some length about his treatment at the city prison. He claims that he was not allowed for two days to make bond, though at any time able to do so.

"In the first place," he said, referring to his case, "there was no occasion to lock me up at all. I am as innocent of any wrong as you are. I was walking along the street with my wife when Policeman Sheridan met me and told me they wanted me at the station house. I asked him to walk on home with my wife and myself, saying that I would then accompany him to the station house. This he refused to do. When I got to the station house I asked them if they wouldn't detail a man to go home with me, so I could see my wife safely there, but this they refused also. Then they locked me up. They didn't tell me what charge there was against me, but put me in a cell with a well-known citizen of Atlanta. There was one chair in the little cell and the gentleman I refer to occupied that. The cell floor was in a terribly filthy condition—so filthy that I couldn't find a place to sit down there and I had to stand up all night. When my companion was released the next morning I got the chair; but they didn't let me keep it long until they transferred me to one even filthier. Finally I succeeded in getting them to let me go in with two well-known men, against whom there was a charge of gambling—and who by the way came clear. After awhile we were transferred to one that had been occupied by a lot of negroes and that was filthy. None of us could even sit down there. Now I claim that such quarters are a disgrace to Atlanta, and that the worst sort of a criminal should not be put in such a place. Every man who is put in there isn't a criminal by a long sight, and you can imagine—no you can't either—how an innocent man would feel if put in such a place."

As stated, nobody appeared against Mr. Roberts when his case was called, the gentleman from whom it was said that he had stolen some money saying he is satisfied that Roberts was not the man who did it.

There may be developments in this case yet.

After being dismissed, Roberts tried to swear out a warrant for Officer Chandler, accusing him of stealing the money in question, but Justice Owens would not issue the warrant, as he was satisfied Roberts was actuated by spite.

SAYER'S SLAYER

CAPTURED NEAR CALHOUN AFTER DARK LAST NIGHT.

Underwood Refuses to Talk Further Than to Say He Was Obliged to Kill Sayer. The Feeling Against Him.

Underwood has been caught.

After a several days' chase Underwood was captured yesterday.

The Capture in Calhoun.

This dispatch from Calhoun announces the important fact:

CALHOUN, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—E. A. Underwood, the man who killed A. H. Sayer in Atlanta on the 25th instant, was captured near Lily Pond, and near his home, five miles south of Calhoun, tonight just after dark.

He was captured by N. H. McGinnis, sheriff of Gordon county, and a posse which had been searching for him since the killing.

When captured, he offered no resistance. He was in no condition to fight, being somewhat injured by jumping from a freight train as it passed his home last night.

He declined to talk about the killing at the jail tonight, but said he might say something in the morning. He gave no information as to the killing, when captured, farther than to say he was compelled to kill Sayer.

Since the arrival of Sayer's remains here, there has been considerable excitement over the killing and strong expressions of condemnation against Underwood under THE CONSTITUTION'S report of the facts of the murder.

IT WAS A CAUCUS

That the Police Commissioners Held Last Night.

A caucus was held by the board of police commissioners last night.

It was all about the general election which takes place next Tuesday.

But all the commissioners were as mum as oysters regarding what they discussed in the meeting.

The caucus was held in the chief's office at the station house, and nobody but the commissioners was allowed on the inside except for a few minutes, during which the chief, captain and sergeants were called in to answer some questions.

It is more than probable that the next chief of police is already elected, that he was virtually agreed upon at last night's meeting, which was called in order that the commissioners might have an opportunity of showing their hands.

Mayor Hemphill and every member of the board were on hand.

Who the new chief will be, of course the public will have to wait until next Tuesday to find out.

It may be A. B. Connolly, L. P. Thomas, J. M. Wright or W. P. Manley.

All have friends on the board, who will stick to them, and the meeting last night may be the beginning of a lively contest.

After the board discussed the situation for a couple of hours with closed doors Chief Connolly, the captain and sergeant were called in and heard from in regard to individual members of the force.

Next Tuesday will tell the tale.

A BIG SUIT

FILED IN THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

William Latimer Wants $250,000 Damages for Alleged Breach of Contract—The Papers Served Yesterday.

Papers were served in an important suit yesterday morning.

The suit was brought in the circuit court by William Latimer, of Wilmington, N. C., against M. Frank, of Mississippi; A. E. Thornton, of Georgia, and William Gilchrist and G. H. Smith, of North Carolina, for $250,000 damages for alleged violation of contract.

Mr. Latimer, in his petition, sets forth that on November 20, 1888, Messrs. Frank, Thornton, Gilchrist and Smith entered into a written contract with him as follows:

We, the undersigned, M. Frank, of Columbus, Miss.; A. E. Thornton, of Atlanta, Ga., and William Gilchrist and G. H. Smith, of Wilmington, N. C., propose to organize companies to manufacture pine fiber and bagging; $100,000 cash to be raised to build and equip each factory, which shall be capitalized at $200,000 each for the first ten factories, which are to be erected, if possible, during the year 1889; of which said capitalization William Latimer is to receive $64,000, and we to receive $36,000 for patent rights, and the parties who subscribe the cash to build the factories the remaining $10,000 in stock in each of the factories; William Latimer to be president of each factory at a salary of $100 per annum from each, if practicable. The stock owned by William Latimer and by us, to be pooled and placed in the hands of a trustee; and no part nor all the stock so pooled shall be sold within two years.

The Pine Fiber mill, one now existing and the other being built at Cronly, N. C., shall be one of the ten factories. Of the $100,000 cash to be used for this particular company, sufficient shall be used to increase the capacity of these mills to 2,000,000 yards of pine fiber bagging per annum. Of the balance of this amount one-half shall be retained for the use of the company and the other half shall be paid to the said William Latimer for his said plants. Should this pine fiber industry be developed beyond the ten bagging factories above referred to in any manner whatever, we are to divide equally with William Latimer any profits that may arise from the use of the patent rights, whether the profits are in the nature of stocks, royalties, permits or otherwise. On the above conditions William Latimer is to transfer to us all the rights, privileges, patents, etc., now owned by him or by the Acme Manufacturing Company, or hereafter to be acquired, but said rights, etc., shall be only for the United States.

This agreement was based on Latimer's being able to demonstrate upon the completion of his mill at Cronly that the bagging could be made at a cost of 5 cents per yard.

The petitioner alleges further that on April 13, 1889, an agreement was made between himself and the aforesaid, by which Mr. Frank and his associates were to take possession of the Cronly property. For this they were to pay $5,000, which was to be repaid them with 6 per cent interest, if after reasonable efforts on the latter's part they should fail to prove the truth of Latimer's claim that the fiber could be successfully made for 1½ cents per pound, and the two-pound bagging at 5 cents per yard.

Mr. Frank and his partners were to remain in possession of the mills until the question of the cost of production should be settled. When proof was furnished they were to organize a company, the capital of which should be distributed between Latimer and themselves. Latimer was also to be paid a sum of money equal to one-half of the balance left from $100,000, after the mills had been increased to a capacity of not more than 2,000,000 yards of bagging annually. At any rate he was to get one-half of the amount left from $100,000 after an agreed increase of capacity had been made.

Should Frank and his partners not prove the question in point, they were not to be credited with the money expended by them in attempting to do so. The mills were then to be returned to Latimer. If they proved the fact they were to be credited with the amount expended for machinery and fixtures in increasing the capacity or perfecting the mills.

They were not to be credited with any sum expended for raw material, labor, salaries and fixed charges necessary in producing same. They were to jointly value the stock on hand (except matting), and Latimer was to get the amount decided as a value.

He states further that on August 9, 1889, he and "the aforesaid made a written agreement supplemented to the two previous ones and in final settlement thereof." They agreed thereon to organize a limited liability company will a paid-up capital of $10,000, with authority to increase to $1,000,000, Latimer to be president.

Latimer agreed with the above-named parties to sell and convey to the new company the property of the Acme Company, and transfer also three patents for the treatment and manufacture of fiber from the pine tree leaves or needles.

He agreed further that when the aforesaid company should be formed and issued stock to him, as aforesaid, he would sell to them $492,000 stock for $20,000, payable part in cash, and part on the installment plan.

The parties of the second part were to use all possible diligence to forward the scheme, and when the ten factories were completed the company was to be capitalized at not less than $2,000,000. One million of this was to be issued for the use of the patent right and for its use Latimer was to get 64 per cent and the others combined 36 per cent. All other profits, from the use or sale of the patents rights, were to be divided equally. If they were sold entire Latimer was to get 80 per cent of the proceeds and the rest 40 per cent.

He was not obliged to pay a cent to carry out the terms of the contract. Stock was to be held for two years, and not to be sold or transferred during that time except on a majority vote.

The petitioner says he has complied with all his promises and agreements specified in the three contracts, and that Messrs. Frank, Thornton, Gilchrist and Smith have failed to perform their part. He says that by their failure to keep their agreements he has been damaged $250,000 worth.

Madison Needs a Hotel.

The only hotel building in Madison, Ga., was burned March 23d. The city is sadly in need of a new one. A splendid chance for a paying investment. I will sell the lot upon which the old one stood, in the heart of the city—103x250 feet—also walls of old building containing $1,500 worth of good brick. Madison will soon have electric lights and waterworks—the contracts having been let for both—has two railroads, low rates of tax, good schools and churches and a population of over 3,000 souls. The best location in the south for a hotel. Address C. M. Furlow, Jr., Editor Madisonian, Madison, Ga. sat sun mon

AN ENJOYABLE VISIT.

The New York Party Shown Around the City Yesterday.

The New York party, who arrived in the city Thursday evening from Bridgeport, were shown around the city yesterday morning by Colonel A. J. McBride, Mr. Paul Romare and Captain E. P. Howell, accompanied by Miss McBride and Miss Howell.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. O. Olcott, Mr. Charles Hilton Brown, Mrs. Neilson Alcott, Mr. A. Lawrence Knowles, Mr. R. A. Cunningham, Judge Maurice J. Power and Mr. D. Lowber Smith.

Previous to the drive there was a pleasant little reception tendered the distinguished visitors at the Kimball by Mr. R. J. Lowry, Mr. Paul Romare, Captain E. P. Howell, Hon. Clark Howell, Colonel McBride and Miss Effie Howell.

During the drive the party called on Governor Northen, who received them most courteously and extended to them a hearty welcome to Georgia.

The party left on the vestibule train, at 10 o'clock, for New York, well pleased with the kindness and courtesy shown them during their visit to the south.

The party was made up of wealthy capitalists, and came south for the purpose of looking through the country with a view to investing in real estate.

WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

The Ladies Are Fitting Up New Quarters on Whitehall Street.

The ladies at the head of the Woman's Christian Association are enthusiastic over the success which attends their efforts in fitting up their new headquarters at No. 138 Whitehall street for a broader line of work than has heretofore been followed.

In addition to their work for children, which they have conducted with so much success for the past five years, they will on April, 1s, to pen a new department, and that is—

A boarding house for self-supporting women and girls.

It is a place where they can obtain board and lodging at reasonable rates; where they will be surrounded by the comforts of a Christian home, and can enjoy the refining influence of a quiet place, with access to a good library and a piano.

This department will also be open to ladies who are not self-supporting. There they may have a comfortable stopping place, while in the city for pleasure or business, at less cost than at a hotel.

The ladies call attention to the "Noon Rest" for business women and girls who have not time to go to distant homes for dinner. They are invited every day to the "Rest," and to bring their lunches or obtain them there, and spend the noon hour comfortably and profitably in the reading room.

The ladies ask every person who can afford it to contribute a good book to the library; all proprietors of newspapers, and especially of religious and family periodicals, to send donations of their publications to this worthy institution. They thankfully acknowledge the receipt of THE DAILY CONSTITUTION, Christian Index and Journal for several years past.

The manager of the home will be thankful for donations of bedding, table linen, chairs, crockery or anything useful in housekeeping.

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

William Carder Gets Fifteen Months in the Penitentiary for Perjury.

William Carder, of Union county, was on Thursday tried in the United States court for perjury.

After being out for over two hours Thursday afternoon, the jury returned a sealed verdict yesterday morning. It convicted Carder. Judge Newnan thereupon sentenced him to fifteen months imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary and a fine of $500.

In September of 1888 Carder went before Commissioner Bledsoe at Ellijay and swore out information against John Walker, charging him with carrying on the business of a distiller without having paid the government license. On May 16, 1890, he appeared before Commissioner Crawford and swore that Walker was not engaged in the illicit distilling business, and that he had never charged him with the fact.

That was the ground for the perjury charge.

DON'T GIVE UP

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One bottle may not cure "right off" a complaint of years; persist until a cure is effected. As a general rule, improvement follows shortly after beginning the use of this medicine. With many people, the effect is immediately noticeable; but some constitutions are less susceptible to medicinal influences than others, and the curative process may, therefore, in such cases, be less prompt. Perseverance in using this remedy is sure of its reward at last. Sooner or later, the most stubborn blood diseases yield to

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad, at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, the least sudden motion causing me severe distress. Frequently, boils and rashes would break out on various parts of the body. By the advice of friends and my family physician, I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and continued it till the poison in my blood was thoroughly eradicated."—L. W. English, Montgomery City, Mo.

"My system was all run down; my skin rough and of yellowish hue. I tried various remedies, and while some of them gave me temporary relief, none of them did any permanent good. At last I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, continuing it exclusively for a considerable time, and am pleased to say that it completely

Cured Me.

I presume my liver was very much out of order, and the blood impure in consequence. I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any one afflicted as I was."—Mrs. N. A. Smith, Glover, Vt.

"For years I suffered from scrofula and blood diseases. The doctors' prescriptions and several so-called blood-purifiers being of no avail, I was at last advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and now feel like a new man, being fully restored to health."—C. N. Frink, Decorah, Iowa.

HOW WILL IT END?

THE MARIETTA AND NORTH GEORGIA STRIKE.

It Was Discussed in the Meeting Yesterday and Will Be Again Today—The Result Looked For.

The Marietta and North Georgia strike presents no change.

This morning, however, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will consider the situation again.

Divisions 207 and 368, the two Atlanta lodges, had a joint conference yesterday morning, but, as far as the public knows, no definite action was determined upon.

Assistant Grand Chief Youngson was present and took part in the deliberations of the meeting.

Of course, nothing definite is known of what transpired, as the meeting was a secret one. Nevertheless, it is safe to say that the attitude of the brotherhood towards the Marietta and North Georgia was in no wise changed. In fact, it may be said with equal safety that the brotherhood men are more pronounced now in their support of the strikers than ever before.

In the division room yesterday morning the ground was all gone over again, and the more Mr. Youngson heard of the discussion the more he was disposed to endorse the action of the Marietta and North Georgia men and the members of the brotherhood in supporting them.

The meeting lasted three or four hours, and when an adjournment was moved it was with the understanding that there will be another meeting this morning.

At the meeting this morning there will be present a representative of the Louisville and Nashville road and a representative of the East Tennessee. Both of these gentlemen will be empowered to act and represent fully the division they come from. Then President Felton, of the East Tennessee, and President Smith, of the Louisville and Nashville, will be in the city too within easy reach of the brotherhood meeting.

So will Receiver Glover.

Just what plan the meeting this morning may formulate no one has the most remote idea, but the pleasant happy smile of the brotherhood men indicate that they have no doubts as to the result.

Receiver Glover's attitude will be a matter of considerable interest this morning. The engineers are inclined to think that an adjustment can be brought about with the receiver.

Judge Tompkins, however, is disposed to carry the contest into the courts further still. He has an idea that the United States court can order the Western and Atlantic engineers to move the Marietta and North Georgia cars, and then imprison them if they refuse. The engineers only laugh at this proposition, and say they will go to jail before obeying the order.

They are of the opinion, too, that they can settle easier with Receiver Glover than with Judge Tompkins.

As is well known the engineer's brotherhood has a right to have its committees lay off when there is committee work on hand.

Then from the number of Western and Atlantic men who are idle just now, there seem to be several committees in the field.

But what they are off for and what they are doing, no one appears to know.

This morning may present it all, though.

Chief Sergeant, of the Firemen's Brotherhood, came in yesterday and is at the Kimball. This morning he will give the firemen's strike on the Marietta and North Georgia and the contemplated trouble on the East Tennessee a complete investigation and decide upon the case. So far Chief Sergeant has not acquired enough information to warrant an opinion on his part.

The hotel corridors were thronged last night with the brotherhood men and their friends.

The result of the Marietta and North Georgia strike was the leading topic.

And a victory for the engineers was freely predicted.

The Marietta and North Georgia just now is in a badly handicapped situation. There is a dearth of coal all along the line, and in a few days the engines will be without fuel. This has occurred once before, but this time the road will not be able to replenish its lines as it did before. Colonel Thomas, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, is believed to be thoroughly in sympathy with the engineers, and the Western and Atlantic will not give the Marietta and North Georgia any more coal. Before the road got its supply from the East Tennessee by a sneak at Knoxville, but that will never be repeated. The East Tennessee system with its 2,000 miles will do nothing to assist the Marietta and North Georgia while the 800 miles of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis will support the engineers as far as practicable.

GOOD FRIDAY AND EASTER.

Services Held Yesterday, and Something of Those for Sunday.

Yesterday was Good Friday, and at the Roman Catholic churches, the Episcopal churches and the German Lutheran church, interesting and impressive services were held in the morning.

This morning, at St. Luke's, at 9:30 o'clock, there will be a short service, and today Lent is at an end. Tomorrow the bells will ring the glad tidings of Easter morn, and most of the churches will have special exercises.

At St. Luke's.

At St. Luke's the services will begin at 11 o'clock with prayer and holy communion. In addition to a sermon by Dr. Barrett, an interesting feature will be the musical programme, to be rendered by a vested choir of forty voices, with a complete orchestral accompaniment.

At 4 o'clock there will be the children's Easter celebration, to which all the children of Atlanta are cordially invited.

The church will be artistically decorated with flowers for the occasion.

At St. Philip's.

At St. Philip's the morning services will be characterized by holy communion and a sermon by Rev. Mr. Rees, who, assisted by Rev. W. H. Hunt, will conduct the exercises. Here Professor Mayer has prepared an excellent programme, and the choir will be augmented by the talented Misses Nellie and Julia Clossen. At 7:30 o'clock p. m. the children will gather at an enjoyable festival.

The Other Churches.

At the Catholic churches regular Easter services will be held, as will be the case at the Church of the Redeemer, by Rev. A. F. Sherrill, and at the German Lutheran by Rev. Mr. Klerner.

"The Corsair."

The famous comic opera burlesque, "The Corsair," will be produced at the opera house on next Monday and Tuesday evening, and a matinee will also be given on Tuesday. Its gorgeous costumes, its magnificent stage settings, its charming music and its pretty girls, all combine to induce the large constituency for a good burlesque performance that exists throughout the county, to establish it as the best extravaganza of the day. The management has every reason to congratulate themselves upon the fact that nothing better of its kind has ever been seen than "The Corsair," with its crowd of pretty women, its magnificent mounting and the hilarity that runs throughout the evening. It has been an enormous success in every large city in the country, and there is little doubt but that the audiences here will come near testing the capacity of the house.

THREE BIDS IN,

BUT IT IS POSSIBLE SOME WERE NOT EARLY ENOUGH.

The Military Advisory Board Will Decide the Encampment Matter this Morning—Other Capitol News.

The military advisory board meets at 10 o'clock this morning in the adjutant general's office.

They will open the bids for the encampment for 1891, and, unless something unexpected occurs, their decision will be made and announced today.

More than the usual importances attaches to the bids made for this year's encampment, because it is generally believed that the successful bidder in this contest has an "inside track" in the matter of a permanent military encampment.

There are three bids now in the hands of Adjutant General Kell. They are from Marietta, Salt Springs and Chickamauga. It is said that Chickamauga's was the only bid that was in before noon, but that is disputed.

The Ozburn Case.

The argument in the case of Ozburn vs. the State was concluded yesterday morning before the supreme court. This is the effort to secure a new trial for Charles M. Ozburn, now in Fulton county jail under a death sentence for murder.

Captain W. D. Ellis concluded for the state and Colonel W. H. Hulsey for the prisoner.

This is the last case on the Atlanta docket. The Stone Mountain circuit, which comes next, will be taken up Monday.

The Middle circuit, next in order, will be taken up Wednesday.

An Incendiary Wanted.

On the night of October 8, 1890, the gin-house of Mr. G. W. Council, in Sumter county, was burned. This is thought to have been the work of an incendiary, and yesterday the governor offered a reward of $250 for the arrest and delivery of the criminal, with proof to convict.

There is danger in impure blood. There is safety in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. 100 doses one dollar.

The Danger Signal.

When nature raises the flag of distress in the shape of sores, ulcers, boils, pimples and blotches, the signal should be promptly heeded. As cities threatened with disease are disinfected, so should the human system be treated. No more powerful or more successful disinfectant and purifier than S. S. S. has ever been discovered. It has accomplished wonderful results, and there are thousands of people in this country today who regard the proprietors of S. S. S. as benefactors. What it has already accomplished it will continue to accomplish. It is already established as a staple family medicine.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

THE EAST TENNESSEE STRIKE HAS FIZZLED OUT.

A Two-Hours' Strike at Rome Yesterday. Other Matters of General Interest to Railroad Men.

The great strike on the East Tennessee didn't pan out very well yesterday.

The same crowd that tried to get up a strike here departed for Rome Thursday night as soon as they saw their efforts here ignored by the men. Yesterday morning they followed out the same tactics as here, and at 8 o'clock they had persuaded several firemen and brakemen to quit.

Superintendent Beauprie had suspected their design, and, learning they had gone to Rome, he followed, arriving there at 10 o'clock a. m. He immediately called on the sheriff there and instructed him to arrest all of the disturbers who ventured on the road's right of way.

No one ventured.

Mr. Beauprie then talked for a few moments with his men, and they quietly went back to work, after being idle two hours.

He says his men do not ask for higher wages, but think they ought to have shorter hours. He admits there has been considerable delay in moving the trains of late, but says the road is doing everything in its power to clear things up, and will have it done in short order.

So far as he knows there has been no trouble anywhere on the road except at Rome.

He gives the following as a sample of the class of men who are raising the trouble:

One day last week a man was seen going around with a petition for higher wages to which he was trying to obtain signatures.

"How long have you been on the road?" asked the men.

"Oh, I haven't worked for them yet. I am waiting for you fellows to get bigger wages, and then I'll hire out."

ROME, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—The firemen and brakemen on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad struck last night at 9 o'clock. The 8 o'clock north-bound freight was sidetracked at Plainville, fifteen miles north of Rome. This morning the sheriff of Floyd county received a communication from the officials of the East Tennessee in East Rome, asking for the sheriff and posse for protection. Immediately upon receiving this Sheriff Moore with the posse went to the yards. Deputy Sheriff McConnell says that upon reaching the yards they found a large crowd of men gathered there and considerably excited; that threats of violence were made if the authorities attempted to move the cars. Just after the sheriff arrived Superintendent Beauprie and counsel arrived and a parley was had with the men. An agreement was made that the men should resume work on the condition that their grievances should be investigated and that the 1st of April be given to the road to formally answer their demand.

The Georgia Railroad Company is laying large steel rails on the track from Macon to Camak at a cost of $150,000.

The creditors of the Decatur, Chesapeake and New Orleans railroad residing in Athens and Madison county, Alabama, have called a meeting of the creditors, to be held at Turner's Mill, in the eastern part of the county, to take action in regard to the sale of the road. They will send a man to Nashville to be present at the sale, which is to come off April 7th, to warn any and all who desire to purchase the road that they will resist to death any effort to complete the road until they are paid. A large number of them have never given rights of way, and swear that they will die protecting their property.

The increase in receipts of freight by the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus from its connections and Chattanooga proper, for the month of February, was 115 per cent over the same month of last year.

About $30,000 of the stock of the Americus Investment Company is held in Macon, says The Telegraph. This week this company will pay out $50,000 in cash as its semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent upon its capital stock of $1,000,000. This company has developed the country all along both branches of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery railroad, and built up numerous towns, the most prominent of which are Cordele and Richland along the lines of the railroad, the development of which will still further enhance the value of the stock.

There is a bill pending before the Minnesota legislature which practically makes an employer liable for damages for all injuries to an employe, whether or not the injury comes through the reckless negligence of such employe, or the willful misconduct of a fellow employe. This, The Railway Age remarks, is of particular interest to railways, as its provisions place them wholly at the mercy of shyster lawyers, who can conspire with unprincipled employes and mulct the companies in almost any sum that a prejudiced jury might award. Remove this only protection which an employer receives against willful recklessness and carelessness, and we would have one of the most iniquitous laws ever put upon the statute books.

TO SMOKERS.

Accumulations of mucus are eepecially well marked in the morning after smoking during evening hours, and the gastric walls are covered with a thick, tenacious layer. Food entering the stomach at this time will become covered with this tenacious coating, which for a time protects it from the action of the gastric ferments, and proper digestion is prevented. One or two of the Sodeu Pastilles taken in the morning before breakfast will clear the throat and stomach of all accumulations of mucus. Price 50 cents.

OFFICE, NO. 8 LOYD; YARDS, CORNER FAIR STREET AND C. R. R.

We call attention to a stock of Fine Ready Made Clothing, representing in the aggregate many thousand dollars.

No toll-gate here to levy tribute for middlemen. A direct road from maker to wearer without a go-between profit.

Our large factory at Baltimore is in operation for your benefit. Don't you see how easy it is for us to undersell competitors. We manufacture; they buy from jobbers. The cosey profit of the jobber is the difference. That's why we save you a comfortable per cent on all purchases of handsome Clothing.

Are you an economical man?
Are you a Spring Overcoat man?
If both you have twin thoughts of Spring—an Outer Garment and what you will pay for it. If it is a $10 or $12 thought you'll find a choice of colors; if it is $15, enough style will meet you to make you wonder why anybody wants a Spring Overcoat made to order, and if you have visions of finer cloths and richer trimmings the steps of economy will lead you up to $25.

Black Cheviots, Homespuns and Worsteds. The trio of Clothing Stuffs at the fore. They are all here in appropriate Suits. Constant vigilance alone keeps the sizes full. We are vigilant and the sizes are full, even though the sales are quick. The general range of prices in Suits reaches from $12 to $25, and the sorts! Every proper sort! And the prices! All right, for you.

The skies are laden as we write, and unless the drenching rain discontinues you'll defer your visit—hence brevity for the Boys.

Every good thing in Boys' Clothing is here. That's why the good people keep coming and bringing their Boys and their friends' Boys. We won your confidence on Clothing and we don't intend to lose it.

The best way to judge a store's character is by its methods of selling. Ours are plain, easy, simple and fair. Reliable, guaranteed qualities, one price, plain figures and courteous treatment.
